

DYNAMITERS ON WAY TO FEDERAL PRISON

SPECIAL TRAIN ON PENNSYLVANIA LINE LEAVES FOR FORT LEAVENWORTH AT NOON.

LOCKED IN COACHES

Two Cars Carry Thirty-Three Prisoners Each With a Guard—Will Be Handcuffed at Night.

Indianapolis, Dec. 31.—A special train carrying the thirty-three labor union officials to Leavenworth, Kan., left here at 12:10 today over the Pennsylvania railway. Marshal Schmidt gave his special guards their final instructions just before noon.

The train is composed of two coaches and a baggage car. Sixteen of the prisoners with their guards will occupy the first coach and seventeen will be placed in the second. The seats in the coaches were arranged so that the prisoners could occupy each seat and directly facing them would sit their guards. The prisoners were to ride backwards. As soon as all were aboard the train the doors were to be locked not to be opened again until Fort Leavenworth was reached and during the night the prisoners were to be handcuffed.

Lunches are carried. The baggage car was intended to carry light lunches for the guards and their prisoners and also the baggage of the newspaper correspondents. Judge Anderson took under advisement today a petition for a writ of error filed by the attorneys for the thirty-three men under sentence to Leavenworth prison.

Indications were at one o'clock this morning that the thirty-three labor union officials sentenced in the dynamite conspiracy cases would leave for the federal prison at Leavenworth early this afternoon. At eleven o'clock fifty guards were sworn in to accompany the train. It was expected the train would leave within a few hours, going over the Pennsylvania railroad by way of Terre Haute, Ind., and St. Louis.

The trip to the federal prison at Leavenworth, Kan., was the prospect today for the thirty-three union officials sentenced to prison terms for complicity in the dynamite conspiracy.

The convicted men, including President Frank M. Ryan of the ironworkers' union, who faces a seven year sentence, and his associates, Herbert S. Hookin, Olaf A. Tveitmo, Eugene A. Clancy, Michael J. Young, Phillip A. Cooley, John Butler, J. E. Munney, Frank C. Webb, who received six years each, and the others who were in the county jail assured they would leave before night, but uninformed as to the exact time of their departure.

To Keep Journey Secret. It is the purpose of United States Marshal Edward H. Smith who will be in charge of the prisoners until they are delivered over to the warden at Leavenworth, to keep the journey as secret as possible. Getting ready the special train referred to about the federal building as the "dynamiters' special" kept the force in the marshal's office busy almost all night.

It was learned that all the prisoners were to be handcuffed before taken to the jail and then rushed to a section of the city where the train will be waiting. Once in the train the cars are to be locked and no one is to be allowed to step from it until the stop is made at Leavenworth.

Information by telegraph about the train's route or progress across the several states over which it must pass is to be prevented if the authorities can arrange it. As planned the arrival at Leavenworth will be some time on New Year's day.

McManigal to Los Angeles. Plans for the removal to Los Angeles of Orville E. McManigal, the dynamiter, have been made. He will leave within a short time in charge of Malcolm McLaren, a deputy of Los Angeles county, but the time of his departure will not be announced.

McManigal's property corroborated by witnesses was responsible for many of the convictions. He named a half dozen iron workers officials that had met him at the direction of McNamara to show him what jobs to blow up. Twice he has been borrowed by the government from Los Angeles county.

After his disposal out there on his plea of guilty he is returnable to the federal court here for sentence. The fact that Edward Clark, another dynamiter, who pleaded guilty was allowed his liberty, is regarded as an indication that McManigal will be shown leniency. The district attorney pleaded to the court that Clark had "given valuable assistance to the government."

Efforts for Release. Many of the wives and women relatives of the prisoners have appealed, but so far in vain to be allowed to accompany the train.

Chester H. Krum, and other of the counsel for the convicted labor leaders stated today they would attempt at once to procure the release of at least some of the men after the prisoners are taken to Leavenworth. Mr. Krum said applications for habeas corpus for bonds and if the bonds are not granted here they would proceed to Chicago in an effort to procure from the United States circuit court of appeals the right to bond.

"The fact that the men have gone to Leavenworth is no sign they are to remain there," said Mr. Krum. "We intend to go right on with our plans for a rehearsal of the trial here. When the right to bond is granted the men may be liberated, pending their appeals."

SINGLE TAX LAW IS URGED IN WISCONSIN

Henry George System of Taxation Favored by a Number of Citizens Who Will Hold Meeting Saturday.

Madison, Wis., Dec. 31.—For the first time in the history of Wisconsin a "single tax" bill will come before the legislature for consideration this year. It will be introduced by Assemblyman Ed Nordam of Langlade county, who believes this legislation will result in the speedy settlement and upbuilding of Northern Wisconsin. The followers of Henry George, who first promulgated the single tax idea, believe that all taxes should be levied on land values. At the University of Wisconsin the scheme has many friends. Among its opponents will be found Prof. Richard T. Ely of the economic department.

That a concerted effort will be made to pass the bill is indicated by the calling of a state-wide meeting by the Milwaukee Single Tax club to be held at Milwaukee, Saturday evening, Jan. 4th, at the Hotel Gilpatrick. Practically all of the members of the legislature are invited. Assemblyman Nordam and Dr. Charles McCarty of the legislative reference library will be among the speakers. The meeting is called by a committee composed of S. Y. Gillan, A. W. Hard Carl Aken, Herman Reel, Dr. Charles L. Babcock, C. Leenhouts, A. F. Sauer, Henry Smith and Frank B. Schütz, all of Milwaukee.

The "single tax" plan is in successful operation in some of the provinces of Canada and was recently adopted at Everett, Wash. The late Tom Johnson of Cleveland was one of the principal champions of the plan in this country. As outlined by Henry George the scheme proposes that economic rent shall go to the government in lieu of taxes. In effect it would prevent the withholding of land from use for purely speculative purposes; thus increase the available supply and consequently bring lower rents.

"Mr. George proposes to take all the increment of past and present, and that whether the present owners have been encouraged to believe that they might be permitted to appropriate the whole unearned increment or not," says Prof. Ely in a discussion of the subject. "Herein lies the essential injustice of Mr. George's scheme."

He was the nominee for insurance commissioner on the democratic ticket ten years ago. He was once a candidate for the assembly from Dunn county.

Harris, is managing editor of the Green Bay Gazette, is believed to have been murdered near the Everglades in Florida. Mr. Harris and a friend were returning in a gasoline launch from Miami. Their boat was found deserted on the Kissimmee river. Mr. Harris' friend was found about eight miles from the boat and marks on his head body indicate that he was murdered. Mr. Harris' body has not been located.

NOT BELIEVED

Tampa, Fla., Dec. 31.—Information here as to the drowning of Carl Hillard and the disappearance of Raymond Harris of Sturgeon Bay, Wis., does not carry a suggestion of foul play.

The two young men were on a motor boat trip on the Kissimmee river. The deserted boat and Hillard's body bearing no marks of violence, were found last Friday near Southport. Harris' body has not yet been recovered so far as is known here.

WOULD LEAVE PEACE QUESTION FOR THE POWERS TO DECIDE

Proposal Made by Turkish Peace Delegates Yesterday Following Receipts of Instructions from Constantinople.

Constantinople, Dec. 31.—The instructions which were sent to Reza Pasha to be presented at yesterday's session of the peace conference in London and which the lead of the Ottoman delegation reported were in part undecipherable words to propose the submission of all matters at issue between Turkey and the Balkan states to the decision of the powers with the exception of the question of the future possession of Adrianople vilayet.

The official view is that this proposal of the porte affords the most practical and at the same time the most expeditious means of reaching a solution of all difficulties. So far as the Adrianople vilayet is concerned the Turkish government insists upon absolute maintenance of its sovereign right. With this exception the porte is ready to place itself unreservedly in the hands of the powers for the settlement of all matters affecting the political organization of Albania and Macedonia, the limits of the new frontier and the question of the Cretan island.

The Turkish contention is that the powers in any case eventually must supervise whatever arrangement is made and the conflicting interests of the allies is calculated to cause infinite delay and possible disagreement. Therefore the project of placing the case immediately in the hands of powers is likely to cut an end more quickly to the present equivocal situation.

ROUMANIA'S CLAIMS.

London, Dec. 31.—A dispatch from Vienna says that the Roumanian claims for compensation from Bulgaria are: First, the cession of from 3,000 kilometers about 1,150 square miles of territory on the right bank of the Danube commencing at and dominating the height near Silistria and extending to Kavarna on the Black Sea. Second, guarantees regarding the treatment and national status of Roumanians in Macedonia.

Third, specified military arrangements between Roumania and Bulgaria. The greatest interest is displayed in the popular supposition that Bulgaria is working chiefly for her own advantage. Accordingly the series of conversations between Rached Pasha head of the Ottoman delegation and Dr. Danoff leader of the Bulgarian envoys are watched suspiciously.

CASTRO IS DETAINED FOR AN EXAMINATION

FORMER VENEZUELAN PRESIDENT HELD AT ELLIS ISLAND BY IMMIGRATION OFFICERS.

COMES AS A TRAVELER

Declares He is Neither a Revolutionary Nor a Sick Man and Protests Against Alleged Insult.

New York, Dec. 31.—Cipriano Castro, ex-president of Venezuela, seeking entrance to this country after a long residence abroad, was taken off the steamship La Touraine at quarantine today and removed to Ellis Island pending a decision whether he will be allowed to enter the United States. Castro is traveling under the assumed name of Ruiz, but was easily identified by the officials. They were accompanied by an interpreter and on boarding La Touraine immediately held a conference with the captain. He directed them to Castro's state-room where they presented their credentials and explained they had orders from the government to take him to Ellis Island.

"If those are the laws of your country, I must comply," was Castro's only comment.

His baggage was hastily gathered and he was taken on board the government boat immigrant which started immediately for Ellis Island. Castro was dressed in a dark suit and a fur lined overcoat and wore a high silk hat. He carried a gold headed cane. His skin was sallow, but he appeared in good health.

Castro has been suffering for some time from an infectious disease. It is reported, and this alone would be sufficient ground to warrant his deportation, it is believed.

Whatever the outcome of the hearing it was understood that Castro would be allowed to make the usual formal appeal for a rehearing in case the decision is against him. This would delay proceedings for a sufficient time to enable the government to obtain documentary evidence from Venezuela of charges made against him there.

Here As Traveler. As La Touraine neared land Castro in wireless messages declared he was coming to the United States simply for a visit and for travel. One of the messages read: "I am going simply as a traveler for a short sojourn with the idea of seeing for myself the great nation of Washington, Lincoln and Jefferson."

Another message read: "My country proves that I am neither a revolutionary nor a sick man. Each of these terms excluded the other. Truth cannot be distorted. That you should insult me simply because I visit you is inconceivable."

The deposed ruler of Venezuela is accompanied by his valet who went with him to Ellis Island. At the detention station Commissioner Williams' secretary said that Castro would not be closely confined.

Orders From Washington. Castro's detention originated with the state department at Washington. This order of detention by the Venezuelan states that Castro must not be admitted without reference to the department heads at Washington. Arrangements have been made for the calling of a special board of inquiry at Ellis Island this afternoon to deal with his case.

Plans to examine Castro as to his physical condition at his hearing were made early in the day by Commissioner Williams. Physicians of the immigration service will testify as to his physical fitness to enter the United States.

OVER TWENTY-ONE MILLIONS ARE

SIX MILLIONS OUTSIDE MONEY BROUGHT TO LOCAL MERCHANTS EVERY TWELVE MONTHS.
FIGURES STARTLING
Janesville is the Center of a Large Retail Business—Draws From All Parts of Southern Wisconsin.

The importance of Janesville's position as a manufacturing and retail business center and its relation as such to this entire section of Southern Wisconsin with a radius for retail business of eighty miles to the west as far as Rockford, Harvard and Woodstock on the south; Madison and Watertown on the north; Delavan, Elkhorn, Walworth and Waukesha on the east, is not really appreciated by the average citizen.

It is doubtful if any excepting those merchants who come directly in contact with the trade are at all familiar with the volume and extent of the city's business with buyers from the surrounding field. There is probably no city more advantageously situated anywhere in this whole country to handle outside business than Janesville, and it is an acknowledged fact by those best able to judge that its stores, stocks and merchants are on a par with those of cities many times the size of this and far ahead of those in most communities.

The reason for the large stores and stocks is obvious. While Janesville has but 15,000 population, we serve a field of approximately 200,000 population. While it is not to be understood that this entire population transacts its entire business in Janesville, still much of its purchasing along many lines is done here and all lines of trade are benefited either directly or indirectly as a result.

Let us consider Janesville's transportation facilities and its bearing to the trade. With sixty odd passenger trains through here daily on both lines of steam railroads coming from every point of the compass, and an hourly interurban service from Rockford and Beloit, it is estimated that an average of 2,500 people each day pass in and out of the city. This figure is of those who actually place foot in the city and it is safe to say that at least 1,500 of them walk upon the streets each day—these, mind you, are people from away who have business here of some character, and means a million yearly. The estimate does not cover those who come by automobile, team, etc. The total would be half again as many if the entire outside purchasing element were considered. It is interesting to know what volume of buying these people do in the retail stocks of all kinds in the year—figures are separated from the local purchases of Janesville people and have been computed from the business people as nearly as a general estimate can be made.

There is approximately a total of over $4,000,000 carried in stocks constantly with which to transact this enormous business, representing hundreds, in fact all the best makes of every line of goods in the country, thus offering a range for selection not equalled by any group of large stores in the country. There are over 1,500 clerks and sales people employed to assist the buyer in making selections and back of that the reputation of these hundreds of dealers to make good the word of the sales people and the goods themselves. It will be seen that we have here an almost overwhelming argument for trade both to the outside buyer and the home purchaser and an argument for home dealing which must readily impress us with its magnitude and business power.

Janesville's manufacturing interests are extremely varied and of large proportions. The annual output of local factories, including tobacco and sugar, runs into the millions and the products have made the city known from coast to coast as well as in every habitable country on the globe.

Janesville certainly is a good city to live in and the best city to trade in, and it is the aim of every dealer and every true citizen to enhance its standing in both ways.

"BALDY" UNABLE TO ACCOUNT FOR EJECTION FROM HOTEL.
Was Arrested and Locked Up After He Had Retired—Goes to Jail For Fifteen Days.

"Baldy" Jackson appeared in the municipal court this morning to answer to a charge of being intoxicated but was unable to understand why he was brought there. He had gone to a hotel, engaged a room, and retired, and then some police officer, the identity of whom he did not know came and took him to the police station. He did not know that he had created any disturbance although he remembered that the occupants of an adjoining room were noisy and possibly he had become angry and used some strong language. When he came to engage his room he was half drunk; he wanted to get off the street and go to sleep. Jackson was also unable to account for what had become of some ten or eleven dollars that he had when he went to the hotel. When he came to town yesterday he had twenty. Not being able to pay a fine of $10 and costs imposed he was sent to jail for fifteen days.
Albert Jennings, fined $4 and costs, and W. Driscoll, fined $7 and costs, did not have the necessary funds, and were sentenced to twelve and ten days each in jail.

Current For Electric Light On the Farm
Costs Nothing.

This may seem like a pretty broad statement, but it is very easily explained. You don't have to run the engine for generating current alone—many people have work for the engine to do, while it is running the other machinery it can also operate the generator for a short time each day. In this way you are storing up current in your batteries for future use—making the engine furnish you current for lighting while doing other work, and your electric LIGHTS COST YOU ABSOLUTELY NOTHING.

WITHOUT ENGINE:

Always plenty of light at any time without danger. On arriving home late in the evening. For early morning milking. In case of sickness when light is needed quickly you have it instantly. And it lowers your insurance rate.

The Y. M. C. A. basketball team goes to Milton tomorrow night to meet the team from Milton college. A hard game, is expected, and the locals are out to repeat their victories of former years. The game which resulted with an overwhelmingly defeat for the locals at Whitewater last Friday night, was not one to be credited against the Y team, as the team which journeyed there was only a picked bunch of local players. But one man of the team, the captain, played. Milton has a fast team, and a close game is expected. WINNINGER COMPANY

OPENS ENGAGEMENT

Frank Winninger and Company Opened Week's Engagement at Myers' Theatre Last Evening. . . As Johann Strauss the leading male character of the play, "The Man Who Stood Still," made famous by Lewis Mann, Frank Winninger, who opened a week's engagement with his own company at the Myers Theatre last evening, fully demonstrated his ability as an actor, outside of his work as a German comedian. Mr. Winninger is perhaps best known in this city for his work in comedy, but has shown that he can take more serious roles as well. The opera house was packed for the opening performance, every seat in the house having been taken before noon yesterday. "The Man Who Stood Still" is an old Swiss jeweler with a shop on the Bowery, who, unaccustomed to the aggressive business methods of his Americanized competitors, secures only a small portion of the trade, and is finally forced to sell his shop. Mr. Winninger, in the part of the Kraus, the jeweler, shows the same dramatic ability which characterizes his work as a comedian. His company, too, furnishes strong support, and the parts are well balanced. Vaudeville specialties were introduced between acts. This evening, "A Stranger from Berlin," with Mr. Winninger taking the part of August Schaefer. As this is New Year's Eve, the curtain will not rise until nine o'clock.

GAZETTE PRINTING CO.A HAPPY NEW YEAR.

The Gazette wishes to its many readers a Happy New Year. Just the common, old-fashioned greeting, and yet new with every recurring anniversary, whether expressed through the columns of the press, or at short range on New Year's morning.

The budding of a year, like the budding of a plant, is full of promise. The hopes which the event inspires, may not all be realized, but they are encouraging, and they are entitled to a happy greeting. So, whatever may be the discouragements and disappointments of the year just closing, let us face the new year with cheerful disposition and loyal determination.

Someone has said that "the road to perdition is paved with good resolutions." That's a good deal better than no paving, for resolutions broken are infinitely better than no resolutions, because they represent the material out of which reforms are made and back of the people who are on the upward climb, is always the resolve.

A man who had been an inveterate smoker for twenty-five years, told this experience, a few days ago. He said, "I was in a hotel office in Michigan on New Year's day. A traveling man was pacing the floor and cursing fate because he couldn't smoke.

"I asked him why he quit, and he said: "The doctor told me I wouldn't live a year if I didn't." "Oh!" I said, "brace up man, you can quit if you want to." Then he turned on me and said:

"You think it's easy, do you? I'll bet you can't quit." That was a new proposition, but I called him, and throwing away my cigar said, "All right, I'll show you! I haven't smoked since. But say, I had the fight of my life.

That sort of reform is the result of a resolution, which the man had no thought of making until the issue was forced upon him, but it was a reform just the same, and cured him of a habit which he was glad to be free from.

There are many habits which annoy us, and the beginning of a new year is a good time to get rid of them. The young man who takes an occasional drink, seldom realizes that he is forming a habit which will mar his chances for going to the front. Cut out the booze the first of the year, and you will never regret it.

The years are all good, as they come and go, and a glance at this paper, which contains the chronology of the year just passed, will convince the reader that the year 1912 has been a propitious year.

It opened as a bud of promise, and has made good in every particular. The year 1913 is waiting at the door. Let us greet it with old time cordiality and as the days come and go they may more than meet our expectations.

EDUCATION OF THE DEAF.

The report is current that an effort will be made through the legislature this winter to abolish the state school for the deaf at Delavan, and increase the number of day schools, throughout the state so that all the deaf children may be educated in the counties where they reside.

This proposition is too ridiculous to command attention, were it not so serious, for it is liable to receive favorable consideration, because of the general ignorance which prevails, concerning the education of the deaf, and because the promoters of the scheme are so persistent in their demands.

The day school is popular with the taxpayers because it adds to the revenue of the school fund. The state pays to each county, where these schools are located, $150 per year for each pupil enrolled, and ten pupils are required to establish a school.

Six hundred dollars of the money thus secured is used to pay a teacher, and the nine hundred dollars remaining, goes into the school fund. This is why twenty-three counties in the state have a deaf school department, and why others are ready to install them.

But this is not the objectionable feature. It simply shows why these schools are popular, and suggests the danger of legislation which may abolish the state school. The man who foisted the day schools for deaf, on the state, and who is doing all he can to increase the number, has a theory that the deaf and dumb should be taught to talk, and so the day schools exhaust their energies in oral instruction.

If the good Lord had intended this class of people to talk with their tongues, He would have provided the equipment, and no amount of oral instruction will remove the impediment.

The deaf and dumb are physically well developed. What they need, and what they want, as soon as old enough to think for themselves, is an educated hand, so that they can go out into life as independent citizens. They realize that the ability to earn an honest dollar, through some useful occupation, is worth more to them than half a dozen languages. The state school, with its dozen shop buildings, equips them with this kind of a practical education, and it would be nothing less than a crime to deprive them of an opportunity which never comes to them, or any other child but once.

The day school for the deaf is a makeshift. It lacks the equipment, and everything else necessary to an education that is worth anything to the deaf man and woman, when they join the ranks of bread-winners. The state will be guilty of a grave injustice, if it abandons the state school at Delavan.

On another page will be found a reduced government zone map, a duplicate of a larger map sent out to Postmaster Valentine, showing how the parcels post law applies to Janesville as a distributing center. The merchants will find this map an interesting study as it furnishes intelligent information on shipping rates by mail.

They now have it in their power to meet mail order competition, and this is the only sensible thing to do. The law is here to stay, and the only thing to do is to make the best of it. The local zone, within fifty miles of Janesville, should be thoroughly cultivated by local merchants, as it doubtless will be. Study the plan and then go after the trade.

The men convicted in the dynamite plot may be thankful that the judge who sentenced them was influenced by a spirit of humanity. The sentences were short, but none the less effective, and the lesson is nation-wide in application. The red hand of anarchy has no place on American soil, and organized labor, if wise, will no longer harbor this class of disciples.

One of the first consignments for the parcels post, at Gary, Indiana, was three tons of paving brick in single wrappers, stamped and ready to deliver tomorrow. The mail train of the future is likely to be a freight train, and the letter carrier will need a dray. The parcels post will revolutionize a number of things, and a little time will be required for the people to adjust themselves to new conditions. It will be possible for every merchant in the country to be a mail order house on a small scale, and all enterprising dealers will take advantage of it.

FIFTY AT BANQUET OF BOWLING LEAGUE

Annual Affair of Janesville Pin Smashers Held at Caledonian Rooms Last Evening.

Fifty members of the Janesville bowling league enjoyed the annual banquet at the Caledonian rooms at seven-thirty o'clock last evening. An excellent dinner was served after which a program of songs and speeches was given with Ed Baumann as toastmaster. Roy Carter favored the men with a number of piano and vocal selections and Will Miller sang several solos. Members of the various teams were called on for speeches and the members of the two leading teams in the 1911 tournament, the Cardinals and the Browns, were each presented with a box of cigars.

The next season will start in the Hockett alleys on Monday evening, Jan. 6, and will be a forty-five game series. The teams have been picked and will include the following players: Orioles—Osborn, Richards, Wolcott, G. Baumann, Yeomans; Bluejays—Cook, Sutherland, Ritter, G. Kueck, P. Carle; Canaries—Gsell, O'Donnell, Hockett, Cunningham, Semmet; Robins—McDonald, Winters, E. Merrick, Harlow, Fiese; Swallows—W. Heise, Newman, Parker, Richter, J. Baumann; Larks—F. Gridley, Jeffris, Mead, E. Baumann, Thuerer.

That Of Harder Auto Truck Company of Chicago—$4470, Was Lowest—No Action Yet Taken.

Proposals from twelve different manufacturers of motor propelled fire apparatus to sell the city of Janesville a combination chemical and hose wagon were opened by the Council in special session at the Mayor's office this afternoon. The lowest submitted $4470, was that of the Harder Auto Truck Company of Chicago, but the Council deferred taking action on the bids until it had given as much time as it thought advisable to examining the specifications and bids. Several representatives of the manufacturers were present at the meeting as was also Chief of the Fire Department, Henry C. Klein and I. F. Wortendyke and S. C. Burnham of the Janesville Fire Police. Good-Bye To 1912

An Open Hand of Welcome To 1913

Today we turned over our last announcement of store news for the year with the satisfaction of a task well done. The achievements of the past year have been greater than the most sanguine expectations would have led us to anticipate. But we have a higher aim in our merchandising than per cent of increase—the past year has established a confidence in our daily announcements, a dependence in our honesty purpose that is more gratifying to us and valued above dollars and cents. Many years ago we learned our lesson, that it was good storekeeping to advertise truthfully, to take our money to the home markets, and to keep only the finest grades of merchandise, and in obedience to the natural law of the survival of the fittest the Big Store has grown—and grown, and grown—and we expect to justify still greater progress for the year 1913.

Capt. Scott's Expedition To the

SOUTH POLE

Made by authority of the London Geographical Society for Historical and Research Purposes. These pictures, taken in that far-off and mysterious country of eternal ice and snow, are without a doubt the crowning event in the art of motion photography. You are transported to the very edge of the South Pole. Every scene will fill you with wonder and awe at the beauty and vastness of this country, where ice is, and always will be reigning monarch. You will see for the first time in Moving Pictures the Setting of the Midnight Sun and that great unspanned waste of ice the Great Ice Barrier which will be shown in all its grandeur and massiveness.

And he tried to please his wife;
But it seemed to him the more he tried
The harder grew his strife.This I know you have heard before,
She was called Xanthippe, the scold;
But the cause of all these monologues
I'm sure you've never been told.Socrates wore socks, of course,
And these his wife did make;
But, for wearing holes in heels and toes
Old Soc. he "took the cake."That is how the strife began,
And then the scolding grew;
For Soc. would wear home threadbare socks
Spite all that he could do.We sure can pity this poor man;

EXPECT TO OPEN NEW THEATRE JANUARY 10

PLANS BEING MADE TO THROW APOLLO THEATRE OPEN TO THE PUBLIC SOON.

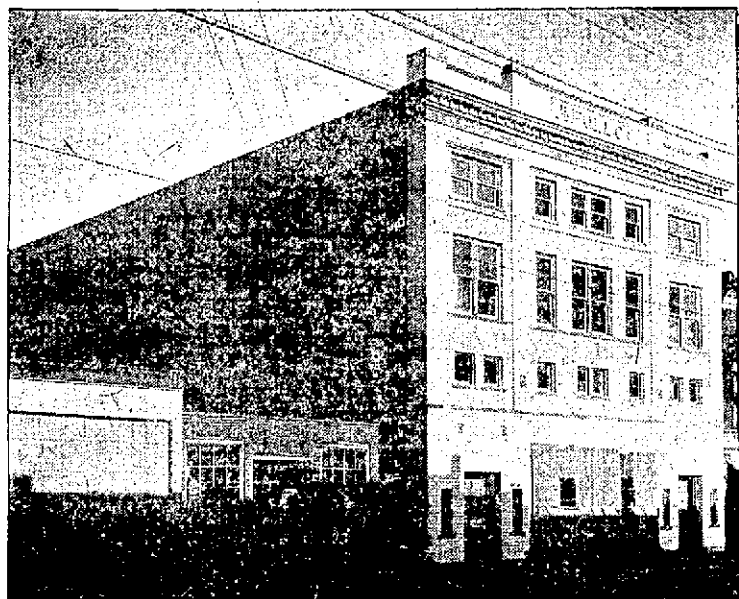

WORK BEING RUSHED

Workmen Putting Finishing Touches on Work on Lower Portion of Structure and Third Floor Will be Completed About Jan. 15.

APOLLO THEATRE STORY REVIEW

The new Apollo theatre will be thrown open to the public for vaudeville entertainments about the tenth of January, according to W. T. Sherer, for whom the splendid new theatre and dance hall building on West Milwaukee street is now being completed. The prediction is made by J. A. Denning, contractor in charge of the work on the building, that the lower part of the structure which is to be given over to theatrical purposes, will be finished shortly after the first of the year, and Mr. Sherer hopes to have everything in readiness for the opening on the tenth. The rest of the structure, it is expected, will be completed by the middle of next month.

At present the work is being carried on principally in the lower part of the building, although work on the dance hall is not being neglected. The floors and steel ceiling for the theatre are already in, and the decorators are putting the final touches on their work. The chairs for the main floor and balcony have been here for some time, ready for installation, and as soon as the other workmen are through the seats will be put in place. The scenery, also has been painted and is ready to set up. The marble front entrance is now being put in by the workmen.

The new structure, when complete, will be one of the finest buildings of its kind in the state. Brick, stone, steel, concrete and marble have been used in its construction to make it substantial and handsome in appearance. "The foundation and floor of the basement are of concrete and the west and rear walls are of white sand brick. Roman white enamel brick and pebble dash have been used for the front facing, and the main entrance is being wainscoted with white Italian marble. Bedford stone is laid across the cornice of the building, underneath the window sills and across the top of the first floor. Just above the cornice and in the center of the building at the top appears the name of the building, "Apollo" in raised letters.

The building, complete, has three floors and basement. The first floor is the main floor of the theatre and the second floor is given over to the balcony. On the third floor the dance hall is located. The basement will be used for dressing rooms, toilet rooms, and shower baths, and throughout the equipment of the building will be modern and complete in every respect. Bubble fountains will be installed, and a speaking tube will connect the manager's office with the stage and ticket office. Speaking tubes will also be put in from the dance hall to the lower entrances.

Above the main entrance to the theatre and the two entrances to the dance hall marquee or hoods made of metal and reinforced glass will be hung. The largest of these will be twenty feet in length and will extend over the sidewalk eight feet, while the smaller hoods will extend out from the building four feet.

The electric wires into and through the building are run through conduits in order to minimize the danger of fire from that source. The stage will be provided with an asbestos curtain, and the motion picture operator's room at the rear of the center of the balcony is built entirely of asbestos boards. There are seven exits on the first floor, two from the balcony with wide staircases leading to the street entrance and one to an iron staircase in the rear, and two in the basement, all exits being equipped with automatic openers.

The furnishings of the building will be the most elegant. The theatre will be finished in white and mahogany, and the dance hall in mission yellow pine. The balcony is supported by colonial columns with ivory caps, and colonial columns are placed at either side of the stage. The seating capacity of the main floor and balcony will be eight hundred—five hundred and fifty downstairs and two hundred and fifty in the balcony. A two-inch brass orchestra pit and across the forward part of the balcony. The orchestra shell and balcony in the dance hall will be similarly fitted.

Five iron beams weighing four tons and a half each support the floor of the ball room and the roof is held up by wooden lace girders. A steel shell above the level of the floor has been built for the orchestra, and a ladies' parlor, a smoking room for the men, check room, and a kitchen for use in case the ball is used for banquets are other features of the equipment of the third floor. The ceiling of the ball room will be convex and will be beautifully decorated. The floor is of beech, and when scraped and polished will be as smooth as glass. The ventilation facilities are also of the best.

OVER FORTY THOUSAND DOLLARS TAXES PAID

This Figure Will Have Been Exceeded by Tonight—Two Large Income Tax Payments Made.

Over forty thousand dollars in taxes will have been paid into the office of City Treasurer G. W. Muenchow by tonight if the average of the payment in the first twelve days collection is maintained. Last night there had been paid in a total of $39,292.01, of which sum $37,374.79 was taxes on personal property and real estate, and $1,917.22, income taxes. The largest amount of income taxes paid in any one day is $1009.49, the greater amount of this representing the income tax payment of the Rock River Cotton Company, which was $921.18. The total income tax was $1378.42, but from this is deducted $457.44, the amount of the corporation's personal property tax. The next highest income tax payment is that of the Colvin Banking Company $375.81. The total income tax is $657.06 but there is an offset of $11.25, the amount of the company's personal property tax. The least amount of income tax paid in any one day was yesterday, the total for the day being $6.01. In most instances the personal property tax offsets in whole or very nearly the entire amount of the income tax.

ARE FOUR LICENSES BEHIND THE RECORD

Total Number of Marriage Licenses Issued During 1912 is 378 Against 382 A Year Ago.

Up to a late hour this afternoon there had been but one marriage license issued at the county clerk's office today which makes the total number for the year 1912, 378, or four behind the record year for the county in 1911 when 382 were issued. Mr. Lee was confident that there would be several more licenses taken out before he closed his office on the year 1912. He even intimated that he might be persuaded to come to the office this evening if he received an urgent request from persons who will assist in the attempt to make the year 1912 equal the previous twelve months in the number of marriages.

The couple who at three o'clock held the honor of taking out the last permit to wed of the year was Ariel Worthing of Magnolia and Gertrude A. Bartlett of Porter.

LOCAL POLICE NOTIFIED OF ROCKFORD BURGLARIES

Chief A. E. Bargen Sends Word That Two Homes in That City Were Broken Into Sunday Night.

Chief A. E. Bargen of the Rockford police department this morning sent word to Chief of Police George Appleby that two houses there were burglarized on Sunday night and considerable silverware taken. This consisted mostly of knives, forks, teaspoons, and tablespoons. Most of the property was marked either "F. W. D." or "W." The local police were asked to keep a look-out for goods marked in this way at the second-hand stores and pawnshops where burglars may try to dispose of such goods.

THERE WILL BE NO ISSUE OF GAZETTE ON NEW YEAR'S DAY

Usual Custom Will Be Observed of Observing the Holiday—Next Issue Thursday.

Following the usual custom, there will be no issue of the Gazette on Wednesday, January 1, 1913. The present issue of the paper is full of interesting facts relative to Janesville and the immediate surrounding country and will doubtless be read with interest. During the past twelve months the Gazette has introduced several new features for its readers' enjoyment. Prominent among these are the interesting articles on circus life as told by David W. They appear each Saturday and for good measure one extra one is printed today. War time stories by former members of the Boys of Sixty One, have also proved most entertaining as have the stories from time to time of scenes in and about Janesville. Special features for the women readers, snappy up to date articles on timely household subjects by capable writers, are found on the Woman's Page, a daily feature. Instead of the old-fashioned first page cartoon, clever, funny strips are added to the paper daily, all of which tell a story in themselves. The service of the Associated Press, the greatest news gathering association in the world, has been increased until the Gazette receives the cream of the day's service, some forty-five hundred words daily. The Gazette is also a member of the Central Press Association, which furnishes the cuts of prominent persons and world's happenings. Added to this is the excellent state service, also furnished by the Associated Press, special correspondents in Milwaukee, Ellis Usher, whose weekly letter is most interesting, Madison and the largest city of Rock county as well as the Nelson A. REACHED NO VERDICT IN STATE VS. LYNCH

Jury Disagrees After Being Out for Over Hour and a Half—Case Was Adjourned to January 8.

No verdict was reached by the jury in the case of the state versus John Lynch, tried in the municipal court yesterday afternoon. The taking of testimony and hearing of attorney's arguments was not completed until late. After having been out for about half an hour the jury members signaled their desire to be released and filed into the court room. As it was thought they had agreed Judge Fifield asked if they had reached a verdict whereupon the foreman of the jury handed him the usual blank upon which was written "We have agreed to disagree." The jury was sent out a second time, but at the end of another hour they had not agreed, four holding out for the acquittal and two for the conviction of the defendant. They were thereupon discharged and the case was reset for January 8, 1913.

According to the testimony of James Nevells, the complainant, Mr. Lynch, whom he charges with making an assault upon him, came to his home on the Lawrence Prentiss farm in the town of Avon on the evening of November 26 to serve a writ of attachment upon some of his cows. After tying his horse he came over to the wagon where Mr. Nevells was building a small rack in which to haul chickens. Lynch produced the paper and not being answered at once drew a revolver from his pocket and threatened to shoot him if he did not turn the cows over to him. He also alleges that Lynch used abusive language in the presence of himself and his wife.

The story of the defendant, Mr. Lynch, is quite different. He testified that Nevells became angry at his coming and threatened to strike him with a hammer he had in his hand. Becoming frightened at his actions he drew from his pocket a small nickel-plated wrench. By holding it cleverly he made it gleam like a revolver barrel in the dim light and Nevells peaceably submitted. Nevells claimed he was not using a hammer but had a buck-saw. Among those called to the stand were Mrs. Nevells, Ex-Sheriff R. J. Scheible, Deputy Sheriff George P. Merrill, Attorney John L. Fisher and Sheriff E. H. Ransom. Attorney Arthur Cunningham appeared for the defendant and of Cornelius Buckley for the plaintiff.

PROMINENT MILTON RESIDENT IS DEAD

Sudden Death of Samuel B. Davy Takes Old Employee of St. Paul Road—Was an Organizer of Du Lac Lodge.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]
Milton, Dec. 31.—The village was shocked yesterday by the unexpected death of Samuel B. Davy, who had been ill but little more than a week. Sunday he was reported better and seemed bright, free from fever and improving. Yesterday he was worse and Dr. Sutherland of Janesville was called in consultation by the attending physician, Dr. Campbell, and gave, as his opinion that the patient had a fighting chance for recovery, but an hour later he passed away his death resulting from a complication of pneumonia, pleurisy and jaundice.

The deceased has been in the employ of the Milwaukee road for thirty odd years as brakeman, operator and agent and since the retirement of Peter Tomkins has been acting agent here. In fact, since he retired as brakeman his home has been in this village most of the time, where he was highly esteemed and respected by the community at large and his friends were a legion.

He was one of the organizers of Du Lac lodge, No. 322, I. O. O. F., and was a very active and efficient member. He was one of the best posted men in the order and was always ready and willing to take a leading part in degree work and attended the regular meetings of the lodge unless prevented by sickness of unavoidable absence. He will be greatly missed by his brothers of the order as well as by all in the community.

He leaves a wife and two sons, G. S. Davy of Janesville and C. L. Davy of Milton Junction; two brothers, O. P. of this place and E. P. of Milton Junction; and H. L. of Palmyra. The funeral services will be held Thursday at 2:00 p. m., Rev. A. L. McClelland of Madison, officiating.

AFTON

Afton, Dec. 31.—The Afton Baptist church elected its officers yesterday. The old officers were re-elected to hold their same offices as they held last year.

Mr. and Mrs. August Engelke and family received very sad news yesterday of the unexpected death of their niece, Miss Ester Schmidt of Milwaukee. They received word last Tuesday from Miss Schmidt about her illness with rheumatism and Friday she was summoned by death. Her funeral will be held today at the Lutheran church of Milwaukee. Mrs.

Engelke left this morning to attend the funeral. Miss Schmidt visited her cousins, Rena, Edna and Frances Engelke only last summer and returned home apparently in the best of health. Those who knew Miss Schmidt, extend their heartfelt sympathy to her bereaved mother and father and brother.

Mrs. Mollie Eddy is sick with La Grippe.

Stewart Oakley went back to work, after several days of illness with the grippe.

Mrs. F. Mester is not gaining as rapidly as she was a while ago.

Mr. and Mrs. A. Stark spent Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. August Engelke.

Miss Eva Griffin expects to leave Jan. 14, 1913, for Florida, where she will spend some time visiting.

Orin Griffin came home Christmas and from all appearances, he received the mumps as a gift. He has been very sick with them.

Stanley Luman is numbered among the sick.

The Mathematical Making of a

I STOPPED in to see Marjorie on my way here," said Phoebe, as she entered the studio, "and what do you think I found her doing?"

"Goodness knows!" observed Jean, peering in the grate. "Nobody can ever guess what Marjorie's up to. She's always doing something unusual."

"This is the worst yet," said Phoebe. "You'd never guess it between now and the millennium."

"What is it?" they chorused.

"Somebody gave her a book Christmas on food values, or dietetics, or what to eat or something of the kind."

"Give me a chance to get what I want to eat, and I'll know what it is," interrupted one of the group. "I don't need a book to tell me."

"Well you know," went on Phoebe, "Marjorie always was daffy about diet. So somebody who knows her hobby sent her this book. And there she sat working out a menu by mathematics."

"Mathematics!" exclaimed the crowd. "What have mathematics to do with food?"

"According to this book, a lot. It says, you ought to eat a certain proportion of each kind of food in order to have a properly balanced meal. And so there sat Marjorie, working out her menu."

"How perfectly awful!" exclaimed Helen. "Think of planning a menu that way, instead of just putting down the things you would like to have."

"It seems that in an ounce of meat or beans or butter or something like that," went on Phoebe, "there is a certain per cent. of protein, and a certain per cent. of—of—carbohydrates—yes, that was it—and of fat. And so many ounces equal so many grams, and so many grams equal so many calories."

"Horror!" exclaimed Jean, holding her head. "That's worse than calculating the coming of a comet, or the perturbation of Mars, or whatever it is. And you mean to say that any girl in her senses was sitting down calculating that?"

"Well, I don't know whether Marjorie was in her right mind or not. I know I should think there was something wrong with me, if I was doing it. But she certainly was at it. She had great long lists writing out, '787 calories for dinner, composed of 80 calories protein, 202 calories fat, 506 calories carbohydrates, and another for breakfast, and one for lunch.'

"I guess I won't invite her to that luncheon I am getting up," observed Kate. "I'm afraid the calories are not right."

"Then, on another sheet," went on Phoebe, "was a great list, 'string beans, 12 calories; carrots, 40 calories; cauliflower, 25 calories; and so on through every vegetable and fruit. Really, I'm alarmed for Marjorie. It's uncanny to sit down doing things like that."

"Who gave her the book?" asked Helen sagely. "That might make a difference you know."

"I'm glad calories don't worry me," said Elizabeth, the pretty mistress of the studio, bringing out a big box of Christmas candy. "Anyway, I have an idea this is all calories. So let's waste in."

"Imagine," said Phoebe, as she balanced a rosy confection tantalizingly near her rosy lips, "having to make a mathematical calculation before you ate a thing like this, as to whether it was going to upset your caloric balance or not."

"When you get to that state, I am afraid some other balance has been upset. Really, I think Marjorie is in a bad way. Her case needs attention."

Then the girls looked gloomily into the fire and ate bon bons.

HOUSEHOLD
HINTS

The Table.

Waldorf Salad—One cup English walnuts, one cup tart apples, one cup crisp coconut. Chop walnuts into small pieces, cut apples and celery in to small diced shapes. Mix ingredients together and sprinkle with coconut. Mix thoroughly with mayonnaise or French dressing. This salad may be served in apple shells on lettuce leaves or lettuce leaves alone.

Rosebud Cake—A tempting cake for New Year's; stir together till quite white a pound of sugar and three-fourths pound butter; then add four beaten eggs, stir in gradually 1 1/2 pounds flour. Dissolve teaspoonful of saleratus in teaspoon milk, strain and mix it with a glass of wine, then stir it into the cake with a teaspoonful of rose water and half a nutmeg. Just cover top with nice white frosting. Get small red and green candies and lay out a beautiful rosebud, with green leaves and stem. This is a very tempting cake.

Nice Breakfast Dish—Into two cups salted water stir 1 1/2 cups oatmeal; boil eight or ten minutes; let cool slightly. Take angel cake tin and pour in a layer of the oatmeal; then layer of canned or preserved fruit (apple sauce can be used if liked); repeat until tin is full, having oatmeal on top. Put away in cool place till morning. Turn out for breakfast, cut in slices like you would cake and serve with cream. If wanted for luncheon, proceed as above, but fill in center with whipped cream and garnish with cherries.

Baked Stuffed Apple—Peel and core apples, fill centers with English walnuts and 4 tablespoonful maple syrup; place in pan with little water and granulated sugar, cover and bake. Serve with or without cream.

Delicious Graham Raisin Bread—One quart water, two ounces lard, two ounces sugar, two ounces molasses, half ounce compressed yeast, two pounds raisins, half pound chopped nuts, two pounds white patent flour, two pounds graham flour; let dough rise twice, and when risen again bake in hot oven.

Turkey Leftovers.

Turkey Patties—My own recipe. This is not only an economical way to utilize all the leftover turkey, but also a delicious dish. Pick all the meat from the turkey, put this and the leftover dressing through food grinder (if no dressing is left over, make more nicely seasoned with sage or thyme), add one egg, flour, (if needed), mix well and make nice flat patties; fry a golden brown in butter or lard. Goose or duck can be made the same way.

Turkey Au Gratin—Fill baking dish with alternate layers of stale bread crumbs and finely chopped turkey, cover with two cups of milk mixed with three well-beaten eggs, salt to taste and bake 30 minutes. Very fine.

Things Worth Knowing.

When scrubbing porches and walks in freezing weather put a handful of salt in a bucket of water; will prevent water from freezing and causing walks to become icy.

My little girl's teeth became colored, a kind of brown substance collected on them. I took a piece of charcoal and cleaned them nicely.

The KITCHEN
CABINET

WE ARE magnets whether we will or not and draw out that which is best or worst in those with whom we have to do, according to that in ourselves which attracts it.

EMERGENCY LUNCHEONS.

We often hear of wonderful meals prepared from cold chicken or a leg of lamb combined with a good imagination. But we all find ourselves at times minus the chicken or a lamb with even one leg left to stand on. It is times like these that try women's souls. The city woman who has the corner grocery to support her trying hours need not worry, but the woman in the country, where the grocery is miles away, needs to prepare ammunition for times of siege.

No one would care to have canned goods served to them when fresh food is obtainable, but the ease of preparation is an advantage many times.

If good oil is kept on hand, a French dressing is quickly made or a cooked dressing may be kept indefinitely.

Canned salmon, shrimp, chicken and codfish are always good, and may be quickly served in any number of tasty dishes.

Peas, beans, corn and tomatoes are vegetables which are reliable. Canned asparagus will make a most appetizing salad or in a white sauce with toast makes a satisfying luncheon.

Canned fruits, pickles, jellies and preserves are usually found in most homes. These will make, with small cakes and cookies, a nice dessert. With a can of peas, corn or tomatoes, in fact any of the vegetables, a good cream soup or purée may be made, provided milk is at hand, or one may use the canned article if the supply is not always to be depended on.

Then a can of salmon may be prepared in timbales or served with a chopped pickle or two on lettuce as a salad.

A steamed pudding may be cooked in fifteen minutes, using a baking powder mixture, milk and a bit of fruit. Shortcakes are always acceptable, and if fruit juices are strained and combined with gelatin, sponges and jellies in many varieties can be prepared. Thus, with a well-stocked emergency shelf, a sudden guest need not strike terror to the heart of the housewife.

BAKED BEANS

Mrs. G. C. McLean's Recipe for Baked Beans.

(Published by request.)

Soak 1 quart of dry beans over night. Pour off water and cover with fresh water; put in 1 teaspoon soda and cut into discs. Stir this through this water and cover with fresh water again and boil until soft. Pour all into colander and let drain for a few minutes. Take half pound salt pork and cut into discs. Stir this through the beans and put them into a gallon stone jar. Stir into this 1 tablespoon molasses, half teaspoon red pepper and half pint roast beef drippings. Cover with water and put into oven and bake all day.

BEAUTIFUL GOWN
FOR EVENING WEAR

This beautiful gown is made out of old blue mouseline, Ce laise and black velvet. Velvet and Oriental embroidery is used for trimming, the Oriental embroidery giving a bright touch of color to the gown. The yoke is made of white chiffon, and the long sleeves are mounted beneath short caps trimmed with black velvet. The skirt tunic is laid in an inverted box-pleat at the right side of the front.

Vegetable should, and do form, a large part of the food of every civilized nation. The importance of care in selection when buying, waste in preparing and the art of cooking vegetables have never been recognized by the housekeeper as they so well deserve. There is not the anticipation which should be looked forward to in the use of regular seasonable vegetables and fruits. The Evening Chit-Chat

BY RUTH CAMERON

AN ARTICLE on the servant question was recently brought to my attention by one of my letter friends,—she, herself, being a member of the much-discussed class.

She objected to the article because of its tone of aloofness and superiority. I wonder if the writers of such articles ever realize that the "problems" themselves are just as likely to be among their readers as the mistresses.

I recognized that objection, but what irritated me even more about the article was its exaggerated pessimism. It was made up largely of letters from disgruntled mistresses, and the author assumed that they represented the entire community. From reading that article a foreigner would think that it was absolutely impossible in America to get a girl to do general housework, that the average American woman kept at least two servants, paid them from $7.00 to $10.00 a week, treated them with kindness and consideration, and still could not keep a maid more than a few weeks.

Now, I realize that there certainly is a servant problem in this country. I realize that we are paying our domestic helpers wages which are all out of proportion to the wage of other workers who have been obliged to spend time and money in preparation for their work. I realize that even at this wage good maids, and especially good girls for general housework, are hard to get. Nevertheless I still maintain that the whole thing has been ridiculously exaggerated.

In the first place take the statement that the general housework girl is almost extinct. Tommy rot! The majority of my personal acquaintances do not keep more than one maid and although they have their troubles they seem to get along fairly well.

Take my aunt's case for example. She lives in a small suburb of a large Eastern city. The home is large and old-fashioned; the family has ranged from six to two in the last ten years. The maid does all the washing except the sheets, and yet my aunt has never had any serious trouble in getting a general housework girl. Nor in the last ten years has she had a maid leave her in dissatisfaction, as they are represented as doing in the comic papers. One left to study the profession of nursing, one on account of illness, and one or two were dismissed because not satisfactory.

Perhaps she has been unusually fortunate, but on the whole I think that her case is as near to the average as that of the woman whom my "contemporary" quoted who pays $7, puts out her washing and still cannot keep a maid.

Elaborate comments on the servant problem are superfluous. The trouble is obvious. So long as the demand exceeds the supply as largely as it does now, we will have to pay high wages and put up with imperfect servants. If we want to change conditions we will have to make domestic service so attractive that girls will rush into it and the supply will increase.

But in the meantime what's the use of exaggerating matters. It doesn't help any, does it?

HEART and HOME
PROBLEMS

By Mrs. Elizabeth Thompson

Dear Mrs. Thompson: If a boy calls at the house, and stands out in front and whistles, and if you were me, what answer would you make to him?

B. M.

I don't think I would notice a boy who expects me to come out when he whistles. He could come to your door and call upon you as a gentleman would.

Dear Mrs. Thompson:—(1) What will make hair grow?—also remove dandruff—my head is filled with it. I tried vaseline twice; it made my hair lighter in color. (2) Please give me a home remedy to reduce my weight, as I never wear corsets. Friends laugh at me because I don't wear them, but I think nature knows best. (3) My hands are rough from the weather. What will smooth and whiten them? (4) How can I make oldclothes look shiny?—MAMMA'S GIRL.

(1) Vaseline will make the hair grow, but you must apply a little of it every other night to the scalp, and rub it in well. It will not change the color of your hair. For the dandruff apply a little cold oil to the scalp on the night you don't use vaseline. First of all, wash your head well, using an egg shampoo, and wash it at least once a month. Always brush it well and air it well; don't tie it up tight with ribbons.

(2) Cut down your food; that's the only thing that will make you thin. Take a lot of outdoor exercise and do hot bath once or twice a week. Drink the juice of half a lemon in half a cup of hot water every morning before breakfast. You are very sensible not to wear corsets.

(3) Usually the young man leaves the girl at the door, though if she knows the family is up she may invite him in for a few moments. (2) Yes, if one wishes privacy. (3) They are probably curious. (4) Good.

Dear Mrs. Thompson—I am 20 years old, not bad looking. I'm lonesome. I want a girl to love and marry. How can I get her?—W. B. A.

Go to church young man. Join the Young People's society and go to the church entertainments. There are plenty of nice girls there, and if you measure up all right you'll find one of them willing to take you for better or for evil.

Vegetable should, and do form, a large part of the food of every civilized nation. The importance of care in selection when buying, waste in preparing and the art of cooking vegetables have never been recognized by the housekeeper as they so well deserve. Too many buy unseasonable vegetables which are not rich in the necessary food values and are often expensive and wasted. We are often tired before the regular season for them has arrived. There is not the anticipation which should be looked forward to in the use of regular seasonable vegetables and fruits. Strawberries and asparagus were not intended for January and February and the desire for them is very much lessened when the natural time comes for them in May and June. Nature has planned for our bodies in all seasons foods and it is much better for us to follow her ways from a health and a financial point of view.

Vegetables, as a class, do not contain the muscle making elements, but a large percentage of this element is found in the old peas, beans, lentils and nuts which have meat value and take the place of meat. These vegetables contain even a higher percentage of the muscle forming elements than many meats. They also contain such purposes.

Third—All boiled vegetables should be put on to cook in rapidly boiling water in uncovered vessels; onions, cabbage and other vegetables strong in volatile oils included. The odors are dissipated in the cooking.

Fourth—All vegetables except beets, turnips, carrots, etc., should be cooked in salted boiling water.

Fifth—Stewing and baking is a most excellent way of cooking vegetables to retain food value and flavor. All canned vegetables should be reheated in a double boiler and never on the direct flame. Cooking is not necessary and the flavor is ruined by too strong contact with the heat.

Sixth—Do not make the mistake of serving vegetables in rich, heavy sauces. The delicacy of the flavor is lost entirely and poorly cooked vegetables are often hidden in a thick sauce of some kind. A little melted butter, a few spoonfuls of cream and occasionally a very thin sauce with a little lemon juice helps to draw out the "favor" rather than bury it.

The meat substitute vegetables may be prepared in a variety of ways. Do not have these dishes too difficult to make. If so, the inclination of the housekeeper has been to buy steaks and chops or roast meat because it was "so much less trouble." Combinations of a succulent vegetable and nuts or cheese or with some of the manufactured foods such as macaroni and spaghetti, are desirable and appetizing.

Risotto or Meat Substitute. Materials—Rice, 1-2 pint; grated cheese, 1-4 pound; Spanish sweet pepper, 1; onion, 1 small; solid tomatoes, 1-2 pint; or whole tomatoes, 2; butter, 1 t., salt, 1 tsp.

Utensils—Stew pan, measuring cup, paring knife, baking dish.

Directions—Wash the rice, throw it into the boiling water and boil rapidly for fifteen minutes. While this is boiling put the pepper, the chopped onion, and the pepper cut in strips, into a saucepan. Shake over the fire for just a moment until thoroughly heated; add the tomatoes. Drain the rice. Put a layer of rice in the bottom of the baking dish then a sprinkling of cheese, a layer of the tomato sauce, another layer of rice, then the remainder of the sauce, then the last layer of the rice. Cover this thickly with cheese. Cover the baking dish stand in a hot oven for twenty minutes until the cheese is thoroughly melted. Remove the cover and brown over the top quickly. Serve in the dish in which it was baked.

With a salad and fruit dessert this makes a complete meal.

Nut Cake

Simply Delicious
By Mrs. Janet McKenzie Hill, Editor of the Boston Cooking School Magazine

In giving this recipe, Mrs. Hill believes it to be one of the best all-around cake recipes it has been her good fortune to make. The simplicity and uniformly good results will appeal to every housewife.

1 C. Nut Cake

One-half cup butter; 1 1/2 cups granulated sugar; 3/4 cup milk; 2 cups flour; 2 level teaspoonfuls K. C. Baking Powder; 1 cup of nut meats chopped fine; whites of 4 eggs, beaten dry.

Sift flour and baking powder together, three times. Cream the butter, add the sugar; then alternately, the milk and the flour, beating lightly the whites of eggs and the nut meats. Bake in a sheet in a shallow pan thirty or forty minutes. When cold cover with the icing and decorate with whole nut meats. This is also an excellent white cake recipe when nuts are omitted.

Chocolate Icing. One cup granulated sugar; 1/2 ounce chocolate, while of 1 egg; beaten dry; 1/2 teaspoonful vanilla extract; 1/4 cup water.

Stir the sugar, chocolate and water until the mixture boils; cover and let boil three minutes. Uncover and let boil till when tested in cold water a soft ball may be formed; beat into the white of egg, then beat until cold, add vanilla.

The nut cake frosting given on page forty of the K. C. Cook's Book may be used in place of the chocolate frosting, if desired. A copy of the Cook's Book, handsomely illustrated in 9 colors, will be mailed free, if you will send the card and the name in 25-cent coin or K. C. Baking Powder to the JAMES MFG. CO., Chicago.

Simplify the Problem of Living. I do believe in simplicity. It is astonishing as well as sad; how many trivial affairs even the wisest man thinks he must attend to in a day; how singular an affair he thinks he must omit. When the mathematician would solve a difficult problem, he first frees the equation of all "incumbrances, and reduces it to its simplest terms. So simplify the problem of life, distinguish the necessary and the real—Thoreau "Letters".

TO ELECT SUCCESSOR TO SENATOR SAUNDERS

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]

Nashville, Tenn., Jan. 2.—The Tennessee legislature, which is about to assemble, will be called upon to elect two United States senators, one for a short term and the other for a full term of six years. The short term senator, who will serve only until March 4, will be a man named out of compliment; but the filling of the long term office will be the occasion of a stiff fight. The regular democrats have a safe majority in the legislature and consequently will have the choosing of the senators. At present former Governor Benton McMillan appears to be the leading candidate for the long term, but he has strong opposition and the result of the contest cannot be foretold with any large degree of certainty.

Nineteen twelve will soon have passed into the yesterday and we will welcome the glad New Year and what it may bring. To Janesville and the surrounding country the dying year has been most liberal. Never has Janesville undergone such a social revolution as the past twelve months have witnessed. Never have more buildings, business blocks and homes been constructed within the same period and throughout the county Dame Nature has been most liberal in her gifts.

In the following columns some of the most important events in the social and business happenings of the past year are recorded briefly, the story of joy and sorrow intermingled with the steady growth and prosperity of the city and county. Events, almost forgotten will be found recorded and will prove most interesting in years to come to refer to the happenings of the year just closing.

Janesville has adopted the commission form of government during the past year, has entertained numerous conventions successfully, has held many interesting exhibits, which have attracted more than state wide interest, has witnessed the building of a model hospital by the Sisters of Mercy, the start on the construction of a handsome Y. This is An Age of Specialists--- What Kind of a Specialist Are You?

What is your ambition in life? Are you going to be a GOOD bricklayer or a GOOD business man? It requires as much effort to acquire the skill and the knowledge of a mason as it does to get the right start in the profession of business. One pays good wages—the other PAYS FORTUNES.

If you drift with the tide of ambitionless men, you will soon lose your ambitions. If you assert your will power, if you devote yourself to business studies you will rise to fame and wealth consistent with your energy and ability.

In bricklaying you would learn the use of the mason's tools. In business you must learn the businessman's tools, — STENOGRAPHY OR SHORTHAND, TYPEWRITING, BOOKKEEPING, BUSINESS MANAGEMENT, EFFICIENCY, ADVERTISING, BUSINESS CORRESPONDENCE, THE ADDING MACHINE, BILLING MACHINE, ETC.

This school teaches you the fundamentals of business. It develops you along the right line. Its experience for almost ten years in Janesville without a change in management, in teaching young men and women, training them, bringing out their strong points, and placing them in business, makes it the ONE SCHOOL best adapted to the work.

We know the qualifications of an Auditor, a Buyer, a Sales-Man-ager, Accountant, Manager, Pri-vate Secretary, Stenographer, Bookkeeper, etc. We study each and every student and develop them along the lines for which they show the most talent and have the most natural ability.

You may not be able to earn your salt as a Salesman, yet you may have just the qualifications that are required for a Bookkeeper, Stenographer, Private Secre-tary or a Cost Clerk. The services of this school are invaluable to any young man or woman in starting out in life.

W. W. DALE, President.

The Right Start Means Everything For Years and Years.

There are many in the lower walks of life who might have been business men, earning big money, if they had STARTED RIGHT. They did not realize that the game of business was NOT a game of chance, but a matter of KNOWLEDGE and energy.

Don't Work With Poor Tools.

In this greatest of all games, business, it does not pay to work with poor tools. You can buy an automobile for $300 or one for $4000. One is a one or two-cylinder, the other a six-cylinder. Start out in life's race with the best

Six-Cylinder Business Education You Can Get.

Don't try to save a few dollars on anything so vital to your life's work as your technical business training.

If you are at all interested, we would like to meet you and talk further with you. We have the interest of every ambitious young man and woman at heart. The laggard we do not associate with.

At least write for our 32-page catalog. It will tell you all about our school and the wonderful possibilities there are for bright young men and women in the field of business.

Mid-Winter Term Opens January 6th. Evening Sessions, 7:15 to 9:15. Open to Everyone.

In addition small losses were paid to owners of nearby property which was slightly damaged by the fire.

The fire was discovered about seven o'clock in the evening, and an alarm was sent in to the fire department from Box 31. The fire apparently started in the basement of the building and spread rapidly to the other floors, and when the department arrived had gained such headway that there was little hope of saving it, and the efforts of the department were chiefly directed to preventing it from spreading to nearby buildings, and causing a loss that might have gone into the hundreds of thousands of dollars. A heavy wind from the south made the fire an extremely difficult one to fight, and the firemen worked most of the night, throwing water on the flames of the burning debris left after the walls crumpled and fell.

Losses of over seventeen thousand dollars during the past year are directly traceable to imperfect electrical wiring according to Chief of the Fire Department H. C. Klein. The most severe loss from this cause was the fire which destroyed the flour and feed mill of E. P. Doty, at the foot of Dodge street, on the morning of April 14. The fire broke out following a flash of lightning, travelling along the electrical wires and into the building. The electrical arrangements were imperfect, otherwise, it was contended, the lightning would have been arrested instead of entering the building. The mill was one of the old landmarks of Janesville, and the loss on the building, machinery and other contents was in the neighborhood of ten thousand dollars. A new up-to-date mill has been built on the site of the old structure.

From a similar cause, defective wiring, fire broke out on the top floor of the store building occupied by Frank D. Kimball, furniture dealer, on the morning of March 6, threatening the building and its entire contents. It required stubborn fighting on the part of the firemen to subdue the flames, and the damage to the building, stock and contents is estimated at about eight thousand dollars.

There were seventy-nine fires of various kinds during the year 1912, most of them being still alarms. Of these forty-eight were responded to by the department, and twenty-eight calls from alarm boxes were answered. A few small fires, which were easily put out, were not reported to the department at all.

During the year, two extra paid firemen, Martin Helgeson and Will Drafahl, were added to the fire-fighting forces of the city. They began their work about three months ago. Frank Drager, also, has been added to the list of call firemen, so that at present there are in the department, thirteen paid firemen, eight call men, the Chief H. C. Klein and Assistant Chief George H. Osgood.

No new equipment has been added this year, although the city is contemplating the purchase of a motor-propelled combination chemical and hose wagon to cost about $5,500. About five hundred dollars was expended for the department in remodeling Fire Station No. 1, moving the horse stalls back into the one-story addition at the rear, putting in new cement floors and partitioning off and finishing off the upper part of the house. The central alarm switchboard, also, was moved from the city hall to Station No. 1, the move being made without interruption to the service. More sanitary sleeping quarters for the men were provided by the improvements made in the building.

Incendiary fires have figured in the work of the department within the past five weeks, and following a report made by Chief Klein to the state fire marshal's department, J. F. Baker, attorney for the department, came to Janesville to make an investigation. The facts learned by Mr. Baker show clearly that all of the fires were the work of persons attempting arson, and hundreds of thousands of dollars worth of property in the business district and in tobacco warehouses was endangered. The first case was the fire at the warehouse of T. S. Welch on West Milwaukee street, which was plainly of incendiary origin. This occurred on November 18 and was discovered about two o'clock in the morning, and an alarm was sent in from box 15. The fire was put out before damage to any extent was done.

A month later, on December 16, the building owned by the Bostwick Realty company was broken into during the evening, and an attempt made to burn it, but an alarm from box 31 brought out the fire department and another bad fire was averted. This was followed shortly after by the fire in the Sadler harness shop on Court street in the row of Conrad buildings, in which Mr. Sadler's stock of goods was almost entirely destroyed, and a loss of four or five hundred on the building was caused.

Another attempt was made on the tobacco warehouse of E. M. Calkins on Wall street, evidently made on the night of December 27, although the attempt to fire the place was not discovered until the following morning. The flames died out of themselves, and no serious damage was done.

BIRTHS OF THE YEAR

Race suicide is an evil which Janesville does not know according to the records of City Health Officer Dr. M. A. Cunningham, which show that there were born in the city during the last year 235 children; the births exceeding deaths by forty. This is a gain over last year's record of fifty. The average number of births per month was twenty-four, or about one for every day excepting Sundays and holidays. Of the 235 births recorded 153 were boys and 132 were girls. January had the largest number of births 26, the next highest month being August with 31. The least number of births was in October, the total for the month being only fifteen. Closely approaching it was September with seventeen.

More boys were born in the month of January than in any other, the total being twenty-three. August holds the record for the number of girls born, the figure being fifteen. The least number of boys, seven, were born in November; and the least number of girls, five in September. In January the births of boys exceeded the births of girls by ten. In only two months did the number of girls born exceed the number of boys born. In March they exceeded them by one, and in April by five.

Following are given the births of the year, stated in the order of their occurrence. The date of birth, name of male parent, and sex are given in each instance.

As to Dignity.
If I am walking in the very eye of heaven and feeling it on me where I go, there is no question for me of human dignity.—Meredith.

Uncovered Family Group.
An interesting discovery was recently made in Edinburgh in the course of the demolition of the old church buildings of a parish church in Roxburgh Place. A vault containing the remains of Lady Glenorchy, a member of the Breadalbane family, and the founder of the original church, was laid bare.

Power of Kindness.
Marvelous is the power of kindness. They will do most in life who are most considerate. They may be charged with sentimentalism by those who do not understand the power of human feeling, but they will be credited with philosophy by men who understand the genius of sympathy.—Joseph Parker.

Gasoline Is Cheaper Than Horse Feed If You Use a Dart Truck

The wonderful low cost of up-keep of a Dart is due to two features: First: Low fuel consumption, delivering ample power for every requirement. Second: Repair bills have been practically eliminated.

When you consider that repair bills are usually the biggest item of upkeep of most motor trucks, you will have one reason why the Dart is the most economical as well as the most efficient and reliable method of delivery on the market.

Remember the Dart Guarantee.

Remember repairs are kept here in town ready for your immediate demand in case of trouble or accident. Let us tell you more, show you more about Dart service.

Read this letter from the Delavan Ice Cream Co. of Delavan, Wis.
Dart Mfg. Co.,
Waterloo, Iowa.

Gentlemen:—Some six months ago I purchased an Auto Truck machine, called the "Dart," from Mr. Hebbe, of Delavan, who is agent for them. I have used this machine every day since, through all kinds of roads, up hill and down, running it on an average 75 miles a day, and have never been "stuck" yet. I have not paid out a cent for repairs so far, and generally carry from 1,000 to 1,500 pounds on my regular trips, delivering ice cream. I can cheerfully recommend the "Dart" to anyone as a good, reliable truck.

W. R. HAYES

General Building Contractor

Every man to his trade. My trade is that of building. I do not know all about other peoples business, but I have this business down so fine that no one can beat me on construction.

Right now is the time to make up your mind to build. Other people do it why not you? I put up a building as it should be built. Use the material that should be used, the best, and do my work skillfully. For proof of this I refer you to the following for whom I have done work this past year:

- W. J. Bauman, So. Jackson St. for whom I built a modern, 8-room house, with bath, being two story, all frame, shingle roof, 28x33 ft., hot water heat, cost about $4,100. See cut page 20.
- Dr. G. B. Thuermer, Monroe St. a two story, all frame, strictly modern house 25 ft. by 29 ft. 8 rooms furnace heat, cost about $2,900. See cut page 20.
- C. Starr Atwood, North Washington St., a two story frame house, 28 ft. by 38 ft. with open dining room, sleeping porch 10 ft. by 15 ft., all modern, with furnace heat, cost about $6,000.
- D. W. Hayes. A 3-story brick, six-flat building, built of Danville vitrified paving brick, all modern,

- steam heat, vacuum cleaners, with three-story porches in front and rear, cost between $17,000 and $18,000.
- School Houses in both Milton and Riverside.
- Mrs. A. C. Kent. Store Building on Court street remodeled into a flat. Cost about $900.
- D. Ryan's block on South Main street. One store remodeled into one of the most complete and up-to-date Undertaking Rooms in the state at a cost of about $750.
- Mrs. O'Leary on Cherry street a remodeling job making a two-story building at a cost of about $1,400.
- Mrs. Erwin on So. Jackson street remodeling and modernizing house at a cost of about $1,200.

There are many others to whom I might refer. If you are thinking of building be sure and see me before making your final arrangements.

DEATH'S TOLL IN 1912

Death ceased not nor rested from his labors in the year 1912. Attended by Father Time whose scythe never ceases, and assisted by disease and accident, remorseless alike to young and old, his harvest in Janesville in 1912 just passed, equalled and even exceeded that of last year. Records kept by City Health Officer Dr. M. A. Cunningham show that there were two hundred and twenty-four deaths between January 1 and December 28, seventeen more than in 1911, and twenty-two more than in 1910. Eight drownings and a number of accidents in which others than Janesville people met their deaths contributed to the mortality roll which in spite of the increase in its length shows that the city has been free from serious epidemics, from disastrous storms, and other wide-spread misfortune. Wherever soul was parted from body, wherever in the city the summons came to leave time for eternity, families mourn the loss of loved ones and friends miss their presence in social, fraternal and business circles. Included in the number who have passed away are men and women intimately associated with the life of the city for a generation, men whose activities brought them into contact with hundreds of their fellows and contributed to the growth and prosperity of Janesville. At this time and in this place, but brief mention can be made of them.

The first notable death of this year was that of Dr. J. W. St. John, a resident of Janesville since 1839, pioneer physician, and renowned for the kindly philosophy which he so generously shared. Following on March 18, came the death of William T. Pomeroy, pioneer tobacco raiser and dealer, credited with raising the first crop of tobacco for market in Wisconsin. James Harris, founder of the Janesville Barb Wire Company and intimately associated with the organization and in the management of the Janesville Machine Company, died two days later. Early in the summer Peter Hohenadel, Jr., founder and proprietor of the canning factory in this city and one of the most prominent men in the American canning industry passed away after a short illness. Following him there departed from life William M. Buob, the well known brewer; Walter L. Taylor, member of the Fire and Police Commission and prominent grocer; Mother Superior Mary A. Luby of St. Joseph's convent; John W. Grubb, grocer and prominent citizen; Edward L. Dwyer, once prominent as a promoter and adventurer; Silas Hayner, pioneer member of the insur-

Dinner Stories

A Richmond woman has in her employ a colored cook who has managed to break every variety of article that the household contains. The mistress's patience reached the limit recently when she discovered that the dusky servant had broken the thermometer that hung on the house porch.

"Well, well," sighed the lady of the house in a more resigned way, "you have managed to break even the thermometer, haven't you?"

The maid replied in a tone equally resigned: "Yessup; and now we'll have to take the weather list as it comes, won't we?"

The reply of Henry Clay Dean, the famous Missouri lawyer of the early days, to a man accused of an infamous crime, is historic. The man asked the lawyer to defend him, and admitted to him his guilt. "No," said Dean, "I will not defend you. You ought to be shot out of a red-hot cannon, through a barb-wire fence, into hell."

M. Camille Saint-Saens, the great musician, and the life-long friend of animals, took into his home a little dog. The enraged concierge waited his chance and notified the owner of the house. Soon a letter arrived from the musician which said: "Monsieur, my house is not a zoological garden. Monsieur, if you wish your house to be a zoological garden you have only to live in it."

The night watchman of a large hotel saw an apparition in white moving along the hall at 2 a. m. He hastened his steps and tapped on the shoulder what prove to be a man.

"Here, what are you doing out here?" asked the watchman.

The man opened his eyes and seemed to come out of a trance.

"I beg your pardon," he said, "I am somnambulist."

"Well," said the watchman, "you can't walk around these halls in the middle of the night in your night shirt, no matter what your religion is."

ONE OF THE ASSETS OF JANESVILLE IS PARK ASSOCIATION

HAS BROUGHT CITY INTO PROMINENCE THROUGHOUT THE COUNTY.

ATTRACTED ATTENTION

By Its Track Meet Last August—Means Much in the Future—Credit for Work Accomplished Due to Secretary Putnam.

In years gone by Janesville was one of the favored cities of the country relative to harness racing. Strings of horses, with names of big horses attached to them, heralded Janesville from one end of the country to the other. The Janesville track was known from the Atlantic to the Pacific coast. Janesville-bred horses were most eagerly sought for and the annual meetings held here, were times when every available cot in the city was brought into use.

But racing died out in the state at large—in Janesville in particular. The track was deserted. The field was overgrown with weeds or crops of barley and rye. It remained for the Park and Pleasure Drive association to revive it—for their secretary, Charles S. Putnam, to place Janesville upon the harness racing map again.

While the organization of this Park and Pleasure Drive Association belongs to the history of 1911, it remained for the past year to develop it to its results. The park had been fenced, the buildings slightly repaired, are well kept, its facilities are maintained, and in the future it will be appreciated more than it is now. Secretary Putnam has given personal attention to the facilities of the park, to the handling of the improvements, and today the park looks like a park—not like a deserted field—as do the majority of the race tracks in the state.

The half mile track was finished the present year, the mile track put into excellent shape, the grandstand repaired and repainted, new barns constructed, the approaches beautified and the entire stretch of ground made pleasing by shrubs and trees.

Mr. Tubbs, a prominent horse-owner of Chicago, desiring to take advantage of the improved track conditions, purchased the McKinney property east of the park, erected a handsome cottage for his trainer, and will during the early spring, remodel the barns for his string of horses.

Joe Hild, for many years trainer for MacLaren, the millionaire Canadian horseman, has removed to Janesville, his former home, and will, during the coming season, have a string of fine horses in training here. Even during the winter months, eighteen head of horses are quartered here and during the coming spring, three times this number will be put in condition on the tracks for the summer and fall campaign.

In passing notice of the growth of the park association, the fact that many good, fast horses have been purchased here during the past year and more will be developed is now assured. Prominent among these is the colt, Angus Axworthy, owned by Secretary Putnam, secretary of the Park association. This colt is the fastest Rock county bred and raised colt yet foaled and has a record, just a preliminary of what it can do, of 1:13 1/4 on a half mile track. Mr. Putnam also owns Joe McKinney, who made the mile in 2:10 1/4.

Six Cylinder Penn, another fast Rock county colt, made its appearance at the August race meet and later at the state fair in Milwaukee, took down a record of 2:12 1/4. John Huguenin owns this horse, of which great things are expected, and he also had a colt from the same strain, recently purchased in Indiana, that will also bear watching. Six Cylinder Penn is a product of the local track in which Rock county people can well feel proud.

Peter Emmett, owned by Phil Sheridan, is also a local horse, a most consistent performer in races, at fairs throughout the state during the past fall, that will bear careful watching this next season. They do say he can go faster than what he has yet been pushed and perhaps at the next race meet at the local track in August he will spring a surprise for the lovers of the harness game.

Charley Howe, and The Rex are also two of the stand-bys in Janesville horse circles and have proven their worth in times past. They are good performers, when it comes right down to it, and E. Ray Lloyd, owner of The Rex, and Charles Schaller, owner of Charley Howe, have no reason to fear for future performances.

Among the other promising horses that have been tried out at the track may be listed "J. C. N.", John C. Nichols' new colt; William Kuhl's stand-by; Albert Mahoney's promising young horse; Wallace Skinner's steed; L. K. Crissey's horse; Dr. Wauke's fast little horse; Ed. Schmidley's peerless pacer; White Hope, owned by Sheridan brothers, and their new two-year-old filly which will arrive soon.

Taking it all in all, Janesville horse-men and lovers of the harness game have reason to feel proud of the facilities for displaying their steeds. The Park Association enters upon its third successful year with 1913, and the coming scheduled meet in August next will bring some of the fastest horses in the country to Janesville for their try-out for the purses offered.

Side Lights On The Circus Business

By
D. W. WATT

In South Bend, Indiana, some years ago there lived a family by the name of Davis. There were three boys and one girl. The eldest of the boys, Charley Davis, as soon as he had completed his school education took to newspaper work. He worked for some time on one of the papers in South Bend and later was attracted to the show business and joined the Barnum show. Here he stayed for two or three years writing up the show during the winter for the coming season and doing newspaper work on the road with the show during the summer. After a time Bob Ingersoll, the noted lecturer, was attracted by Davis' work and hired him for his advance agent and road agent. Charley stayed with Bob Ingersoll for three or four years and in '84 came to the Adam Forepaugh show. Charley had made a success of his chosen business and was in demand by the highest class attractions in the country. Charley and I had a room together for four years with the Forepaugh show and were the closest of friends. Davis had one bad habit in his work and that was his stuttering. He had as bad a case of that as I ever knew. It would sometimes take him a minute to get started to tell you anything. He would always work late at night, seldom coming in to his stateroom till just before the train was ready to pull out for the next town. He enjoyed a good story and would often wake me up at one o'clock at night to tell me a new one that he had heard, and was always smoking a meerschaum pipe. One night he woke me up about one o'clock when I was tired and sleepy and I reached over the side of the bed and grabbed a slipper and let it go at him. It hit his meerschaum pipe and it was soon in as many pieces on the floor as you would find in a crazy quilt. Davis stuttered and stammered for a while and then said, "It is all off between you and I. We are two from now on." But this only lasted for a few days and I bought him a new meerschaum pipe and from this on it was understood that he was to keep his stories till the next day.

Through Charley Davis I met Bob Ingersoll and in fact his entire family. Several times when he lectured in Janesville I called on him at his hotel and had a long visit with him and he could not say too many nice things about Charley Davis. He said he was one of the highest class managers that he had ever had and not only this but he was such a high class gentleman. The last year that Charley Davis and I were together was in eighteen ninety, the year after Adam Forepaugh died. The show took in the eastern country and while we were showing in New York and Brooklyn it was impossible for Davis to do all the work in these great cities, so he hired a great deal of newspaper work done, had back hire and dinners to pay for which necessarily ran his expense account very high. Usually I paid all the bills without any question or anybody's O. K., but when Charley brought me his expense account, which ran over a period of four weeks and was up above $1,100, I said to him, "Charley I would like to have Mr. Cooper or Mr. Bailey O. K. this bill." That wasn't to his liking. He said to me, "Dave, you don't cut quite as much figure down here as I supposed you did." I said to him, "Possibly not, Charley, but I want to keep on eating what figure I am for at least till the end of the season and I will not if I pay this bill for our engagements would both come to an end." He insisted on my paying the bill without any O. K., but I think he well knew that it would be hard to get anyone to O. K. such a bill. I insisted that there was no money for him until it was properly signed. Charley took it over to the main entrance and showed it to Mr. Cooper and he suddenly went into the air and handed it to Mr. Bailey. It was immediately made two handed. Davis insisted that it must be paid in full and it was, but Davis' engagement ended with the payment. But this suited him just as well for the Frohmans, who even in those days were sending out high class companies from New York were always waiting for such a man as Charley Davis. He went on the road for them and it was only two or three years later that he was taken with consumption and went down into Texas for his health somewhere near San Antonio and in a short time he died. His body was brought back to South Bend and buried in the family lot.

The Davis family and the Stillson family of South Bend lived side by side. There were three of the Davis boys and three of the Stillson boys, all near the same age and were boys together until they had grown up and the late Fred Stillson of this city was always a warm friend of the Davis boys. The last time that Charley Davis was in Janesville with his company he took dinner with Mr. and Mrs. Fred Stillson at their home and Davis told me afterward that they rehearsed their boyhood days from the kindergarten up to the day of the parting of the ways.

All three of the Davis boys went into the show business and the three Stillson boys, Jess, Fred and Edward, all came to Chicago. Jim Davis, the next oldest brother went to the Barnum show and was given a position around the front door where he was kind of an all-round handy man and a little later was kind of an assistant manager. Jim was a high-class man and it was only two or three years later that he was made the European agent of the Barnum show and it was he who discovered the great elephant Jumbo in Convent Garden, London, and after much dickering got an option on him for $10,000. He cabled Mr. Bailey all about the elephant; was unquestionably the largest in the world; he was as gentle as a lamb and could be bought for $10,000 and said, "I certainly think the show ought to have him." Mr. Bailey immediately prepared a meeting of his partners at the Fifth Avenue hotel to talk over the feasibility of buying the big elephant. P. T. Barnum, was the first spokesman and he said, "Boys I shall tell you plainly that I think we have all the elephants with the show that we need, and as far as his size is concerned, I would not give $10,000 for an elephant as big as this hotel we're in." Jimmie Cooper and Jim Hutchinson were in line with the old man and James A. Bailey was soon voted down. But this did not stop Mr. Bailey. He said, "You boys are certain you don't want this elephant. If that's the way you feel the elephant is the private property of James A. Bailey." This was the greatest move that Mr. Bailey ever made in his long career in the show business for Jumbo before he was landed in New York was worth at least half a million dollars to any show.

Jim Davis was cabled to buy him he immediately went to work to advertise the elephant saying in the London papers that he would leave in four weeks for America and as he had been purchased by the largest show in the world. Davis had a large saddle made for Jumbo with three rows of seats on each side and advertised that for two hours every afternoon in Convent Garden the children of London would be given a farewell ride on their old pet Jumbo, and long before he left London he was the best advertised attraction that ever went into a show. It was said that the day Jumbo was loaded on the boat which was to bring him to America that there were 50,000 people at the wharf. And when Jim Davis landed his new prize in New York Mr. Bailey gave a dinner for him and several friends at the Fifth Avenue hotel. But although Mr. Bailey bought the elephant as his own private property he was turned over to the Barnum show at the same price that he paid and his partners received as much of the reward as did Mr. Bailey and it was known in show business at the time that the four partners divided one million, one hundred and fifty thousand dollars clear that fall.

Jim Davis, like his brother Charley, was afflicted with consumption and he too, soon died. The younger brother Tom was an advance agent and started in the business as did both older brothers with the Barnum show. Later Tom came to the Forepaugh show and was advance agent there for some time, but later went into theatrical work and was with the Karalpas and the Frohmans and other high class attractions. Only two years ago Tom was here in Janesville with his own company at the opera house. Although Father and Mother Davis said all they could to keep their boys out of the show business one after another they drifted in and there was one thing that Father and Mother Davis could always be proud of; they were three high class gentlemen and all made good. But they're all gone now except Tom who is somewhere on the road with his own company. Any one who enjoyed the friendship of the Davis boys had something to be proud of.

Buidings and Improvements During the Past Year

Unusual prosperity in Janesville is indicated by the number of buildings and amount of construction work which has been started and completed during the year 1912. Contractors are unanimous in their belief that this has been one of the best years for their trade in a decade and some declare that business has been brisker than at any time since 1902.

One only needs to look at the substantial buildings which have been erected, and then to call to mind some of the fine new residences realized, the showing which Janesville has made in construction this year. The Kemmerer garage building on East Milwaukee street, the Apollo theatre on West Milwaukee street, the new shop of the Janesville machine company, the new mill, the Christian Science church and the new hospital include some of the larger buildings, while there have been an exceptionally large number of cottages and fine residences in addition to nearly a dozen flat buildings.

H. Chatfield's home, 623 Fifth Ave.

The encouraging and promising thing about the record of the past year is the fact that the activity has not been in any spasmodic or intermittent way, but it has been in the nature of a boom, the work of a pressing demand for better business blocks, and more modern homes which presages a healthy advancement of the city in all lines of business endeavor.

It is impossible to place an accurate estimate of the amount of money which has been expended and invested in new buildings during 1912. There is always a danger of undue exaggeration on one side and too much modesty on the other, but it is safe to say that the outlay is represented by a figure somewhere between $250,000 and $500,000. A half million dollars worth of building improvements sounds big and is big for a city the size of Janesville. It indicates a large amount of business for the building contractors and the cement and lumber dealers which is borne out by the statements of the men themselves who foresee continued activity in the coming year.

It has been the tendency to build substantially and well at the same time with a view to architectural beauty. The new Christian Science church is a fine example of the colonial style of buildings and when completed will be one of the most beautiful structures in the city. It was planned with the utmost care and attention to detail. The new Apollo theatre is another decidedly attractive building and is a structure of which the citizens as well as its owner, W. T. Sheper, may well be proud. The Kemmerer garage has a distinctive style and stands out as a model building of its kind.

Of the homes it may be said that the same ideals of comfort, beauty, convenience and general adaptability, seen in the larger buildings, have also been carried out. Some of the types are shown in the accompanying illustration and while it was impossible to secure photographs of every one, there are enough to indicate the character of the new homes which are fast being constructed in Janesville.

In addition to the entirely new construction work there has been a large number of remodeling jobs by which homes have been modernized and improved in appearance and comfort. All of these cannot be enumerated but the more important ones are given in the list below.

A brief resume of the various new buildings of different sorts follows:

The new hospital now being built on the grounds adjoining the old hospital building on North Washington street, is one of the larger and finer buildings of the year. Although most of the brick and mason work has now been entirely fire-proof with cement floors, fire proof partitions of an asbestos composition and all the wiring is concealed in conduits in the supporting columns. The building is three stories high with a flat roof covered with fire-proof composition roofing. It is so built that a fourth story can be added very easily should additional accommodations ever be required. The best of modern hospital conveniences and equipment will be supplied and the hospital will amply provide for all cases, it is thought judging from the present demands. Much credit is due the Sisters of St. Joseph's convent who have been untiring in their efforts to secure this fine building, while the business men who have contributed are also deserving of praise. The construction work has been done by the Union Constructing company of Chicago. The estimated cost will be around $35,000.

Work on the new church for the Janesville Christian Science congregation was begun in the summer and has progressed rapidly. At present the building is rapidly nearing completion and will be one of the gems of architecture in Janesville. The style is colonial in every detail and was carefully planned by S. S. Beman of Chicago, who has enjoyed a wide reputation for his work in preparing plans of church edifices.

The building is located at the corner of Pleasant and South High street. It has 42x100 feet ground dimensions. It is built of Ohio gray brick with trimmings of Bedford stone, cement porches and six large pillars in front.

The new garage building erected for A. E. Kemmerer on East Milwaukee street was begun late in the fall of 1911 and was completed toward the latter part of November. It is built of brick with an attractive front with large plate glass windows. It is admirably adapted to the purpose for which it was built and is absolutely fire-proof with cement floors and supporting girders of steel. It occupies a plot of ground one hundred feet square and has a floor space of 32,000 square feet. The lower floor is given to luxurious offices, show rooms, car storage space and wash room. In the basement is fire proof storage for three hundred cars. On the second floor is a completely equipped work room for making all sorts of repairs on automobiles. A large electric elevator is installed. The building is heated and provided with hot and cold water. J. H. Burns of Beloit was the contractor, and Hilton and Sadler architects.

A full description of the Apollo theatre, owned by W. T. Sheper, is found in another part of the paper. The ground dimensions are 48x96 feet. The lower floor is given over to the theatre, main floor balcony and stage. The second floor is a dance hall with ladies' and gentlemen's dressing rooms, toilets, officers and cloak rooms. The building will be most complete in all appointments. It will be completed within several weeks. J. A. Denning is the contractor.

The new plow shop of the Janesville Machine company was the most Blair and Blair were the architects and Van Pool brothers the contractors. Samuel Tall had his house, 527 Cornelia street, remodeled into apartments at an expense of $1,000. Blair and Blair were the architects.

A double-house or two-flat building was erected for Peter Anderson on Linn street. The ground dimensions are 28x10. There are six rooms in each apartment. Cost is estimated at $2,500. Baumgarner and Baumgarner were the contractors.

The Murphy and McCaffrey flats on Center street are erected at an estimated cost of $3,000. It is a frame building with four apartments of six rooms each. They are steam heated and fitted with modern plumbing. Interior arrangement and finishings are attractive. Shearer, Ford and Boos were the contractors.

Van Pool Brothers erected a double house or two-flat building on North Pearl street at an expense of $4,500. It is a two story frame structure with stucco finish. There are four porches on the first floor and two sleeping porches on the second. Each flat has seven rooms, with furnace heat and modern plumbing, with hot and cold water on two floors and basement. Floors are all hardwood.

DEBATORS ARE RUSHING WORK TO COMPLETION.

The local debaters now are crowded for time in which to learn their speeches. They are "bucking up" on the question the best way possible, and it may be such a thing that they can master it before their debates come off. They did not receive the definite question from Beloit college for a long time after it was made out, and for this reason the men are back a little in preparing. The speeches are considered well written, and much of their spare time is spent in learning them and mastering the delivery. In the six debaters this year, there is a set of forceful speakers, and if their speeches are correct, their delivery should be a means of aiding them in receiving their decisions.

MUCH OF INTEREST IN LINE OF SPORTS

BASEBALL, BASKETBALL, GOLF, BOWLING, RACING AND FOOT-BALL EACH HAS ITS LOCAL FANS.

During the Past Twelve Months Have Supplied Devotees of Various Games Much Pleasurable Excitement.

The year just closed has been a memorable one for the devotees of sports and games of all kinds in Janesville. The event of greatest interest was unquestionably the revival of the local harness racing and the improvements of the park association grounds for the holding of horse races and motorcycle and automobile speed events. But in addition to this all other lines of outdoor and indoor games have had their ardent followers.

forward and center respectively, put up great games, and are given much credit. This concludes the work of the work of the basketball five except to state that they were champions of Southern Wisconsin. Prospects for the present season are exceptionally good.

Baseball and track were at first thought of in the school last spring but owing to lack of meeting expenses in the previous sports, it was decided not to have any sports of this kind.

Football began as soon as school opened this fall. They met and defeated very strong teams, only losing the final game for the state championship to Oshkosh on Turkey day by the score of 28 to 0. Falter must be mentioned here as being selected unanimously by all authorities as the best halfback in the state. Edler was also named for the other position by a Madison man. These two men are worthy of the places and so to conclude, it is with pride to state that not only in basketball did Janesville capture the Southern Wisconsin championship, but in football they repeated the same, and even went further by winning second place in the state.

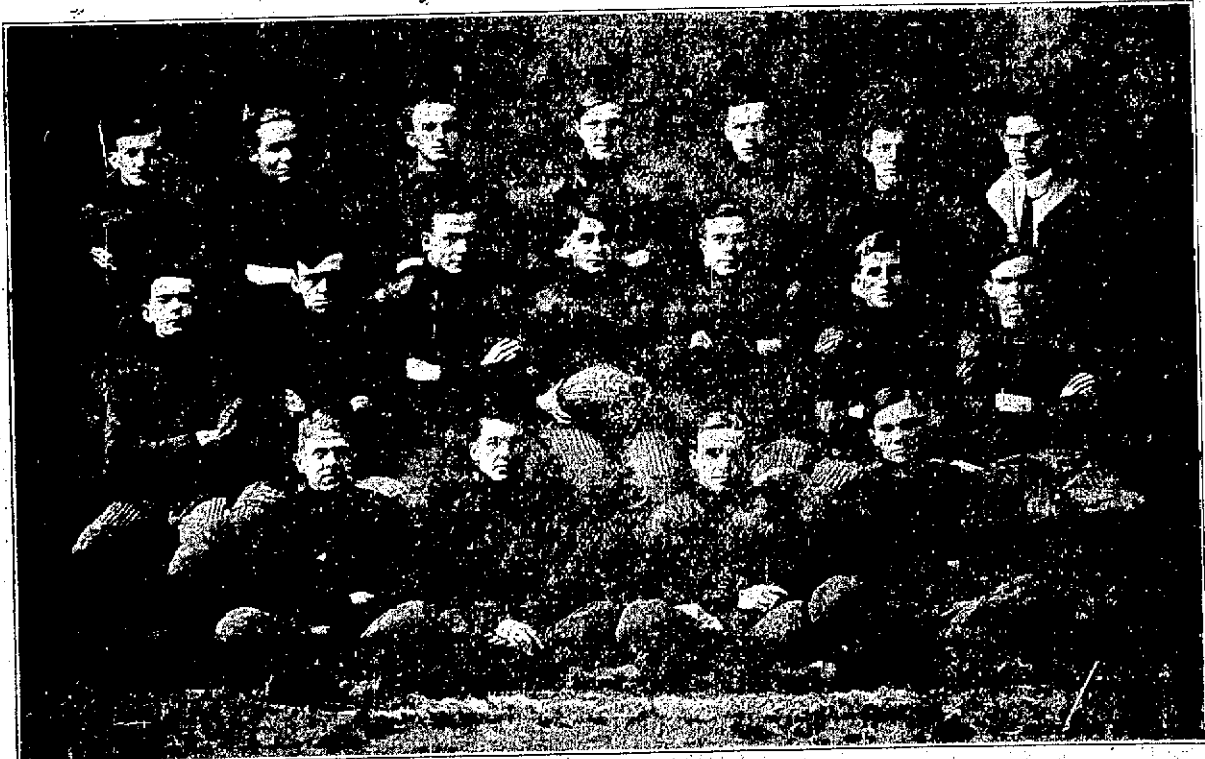

The Y. M. C. A. had a most successful year in their athletic work. Their gymnasium work under the direction from the Monroe Cardinals on Christmas day by a score of 12 to 12.

Aside from the commercial league there were several amateur and semi-professional teams of baseball players that played throughout the season with good success. Prominent among these were the Janesville Cubs, Cardinals and Pirates. The small boys in the various wards also had their teams and enjoyed the national pastime to the utmost.

For the Mississippi Golf club the year has been an exceptional one. In addition to the employing of an expert to give lessons, for several weeks early in the season, players of national reputation were here to play on the local golf links among whom was Chick Evans. A number of matches were arranged with outside clubs including the games with the Beloit team which established a delightful precedent. The club also had its social and amusement sides which were none the less brilliant than in former years.

Among other out of door recreations, motorcycling, automobilism, boating, canoeing and tennis playing all had an increasing number of enthusiasts. For the smaller boys the Boy Scout work with the summer camp was an innovation which was not appreciated as school took a decided boom in 1912. The school turned out one of its best basketball fives, despite its defeat in the Appleton tournament last spring. They played fourteen games winning eleven of them. Their only three defeats came as the result of hard playing. The Alumni won from them in the early part of the season by the score of 54 to 32. Beloit then defeated the locals at the Lake City of Terence Hartwell, proved satisfactory in every detail. Basketball under the heady work of Captain Webster Kopp had a most successful finish, winning the Southern section championship of Y. M. C. A. teams.

Then came the baseball. The Commercial League was the principal factor in the early part of the season by the score of 54 to 32. Beloit then defeated the locals at the Lake City much as it should have been but which was nevertheless a success. The Janesville Gm club has a very successful season and their big tournament was one of the biggest events of the kind in the state.

Among the indoor sports, bowling enjoyed increasing popularity. An interesting tournament was held in the spring in which the Sox, headed by Al Gridley, won the honors in a close race, and the fall schedule of games which have just closed has rivaled it in interest. The Lakota Cardinals made a brilliant showing in their games last spring and as now organized bid fare to repeat their success of former years. At the roller rink there has appeared a number of crack skaters and artists in their line, while the review of sporting activities would not be complete without a mention of the boxing matches held under the auspices of the Janesville Athletic club.

tournament by the close score of 20 to 19. Then the team gained entrance to the state tournament at Appleton, and lost their first game after much hard fighting, being defeated by Menomonee high school by the score of 39 to 28. Here it must be announced that Donald Korst, star left forward for three years on the local five was selected a forward on the all-star team. This is a very high honor and it is a boost for the high school to have an athlete with such an ability.

team, the Parker Pen Co. and the Hanson Furniture Company. In the summer, the younger boys of the Junior class went to Delavan to camp. They boasted of having a great time, only to return to school, and to take up the gym work again. This fall, Physical Director Hartwell has been more than successful with his work, despite his sickness for a while. The classes are running along fine, and especially the business men enjoy their evening games of football

Captain Edler of the five, played a great game and he and Falter are was recently elected to captain this year's basketball five, and they opened state. Cunningham and Hemming at their season successfully by winning

GOOD ATTRACTIONS BOOKED AT THEATRE

MANAGER MYERS HAS BEST OF
THE ROAD COMPANIES OF FINEST ATTRACTIONS
AT LOCAL PLAY
HOUSE.

CITY MOST FORTUNATE

In This Respect Janesville Ranks
With Madison and Rockford in Obtaining First Class Performances.

In passing of the happenings of the year just closing, the Myers Theatre, and the excellent quality of the dramatic productions which have appeared there in the past twelve months and are booked for the immediate future, must not be overlooked.

Since the season opened officially in June of 1912, Manager Myers has offered to the Janesville theatre-going public some of the best musical and dramatic productions that are on the "road." Not only that but his bookings for the immediate future show that this quality will be maintained throughout the season.
Janesville is fortunate in the Myers having such a theatre as Mr. Myers to look after its interests.

Under the direction of Emil Oberhoff a splendid offering for the mussovers of this city and vicinity. A problem play, with a strong moral background, was given in "The Divorce Question," which appeared here on September 7, and which has been booked for a return engagement on Saturday, February 1, matinee and evening.

"Bunt Pulls the Strings," with the company which first appeared in it in America was exceptionally fine, and Cohan and Harris' comedy success,
"Officer 666," which showed here on Oct. 8, proved a great success. Stars of the theatrical world have appeared here and shows with the original
New York and Chicago productions and acts have been presented in this city. Among the number were:
Sarah Padden in "The Littlest Rebel," which will again be played in this city; Raymond Hitchcock in
"The Red Widow," Frank Deshon
in "A Modern Eve," Thomas Ross in
"The Only Son," and a number of others equally well known are included in the bookings for the rest of the season.

A musical opportunity was offered the people of Janesville in the concert of the Thomas Chicago Orchestra, and it is hoped that descriptions will be secured to insure the return of the orchestra on April 14. The concert of Sousa and his band, which it was possible to secure only on Monday afternoon, Oct.
14, was another treat provided for the lovers of music, and the recital given by John Francis Connors of this city with Bernhard Listeman, the great American violinist, and Miss Listeman proved unusually delightful.

Others attractions which appeared here are worthy of favorable comment and the list of those which will be given later in the season includes many which are equally as good.
"Bought and Paid For," the New York and Chicago success of the present season will be brought here and selling it to the United States government at a profit as modest as the senator himself. Mr. Crane has no expensive tastes, and frequently is detected wearing the same necktie two days in succession, which is not inconvenient by plumage, and, unlike his distinguished colleague, Henry Cabot Lodge, he has every appearance of being intellectual without being obliged to prove it.

Massachusetts will miss Murray
W. as he has lined the state with federal buildings, navy yards and other profitable enterprises. Despite his activity, however, somebody was always ready to rise up and heave a codfish ball in his direction or attack him with anonymous letters. No wonder he decided to cash in before the draw.

JOHN MILTON
John Milton, a native of Greece, and a former resident of Janesville, sent the Gazette a photograph of himself garbed in the uniform of the Greek soldier. Mr. Milton left Janesville several months ago to join the Greek army in their fight against the Turks and is now engaged in transporting and caring for prisoners of war. He has written the Gazette several interesting letters regarding the events in the near East.

Good Enough for Me.
I wouldn't be a millionaire a-boarding
up my wealth,
And eatin' patent breakfast food to fortify my health.

I wouldn't live in bombproof tower
and be a scared grandee;
A humble job in this old town is
good enough for me.

I wouldn't be a president and fight
the mighty trusts,
And in no hall of fame will you e'er
see my marble bust.

I don't want any great big job that brings a princely fee.
My envelope in this old town is
good enough for me.

I'm glad I ain't no titled head and wear no kingly crown,
A dodgin' of the bombshells or a short cut to renown.

When I go out a-ridin' in a livery rig,
you see,
There ain't no cuss with dynamite a-
going to blow up for me.

I sit down to my pork-chops in the beauty each day,
There ain't no dope put in my grub
to spirit me away.

There ain't no villain nihilist a-fixin'
up my tea,
And quiet life in this old town is
good enough for me.

I ain't got no ambition now to be a millionaire,
I don't care if I ever move or travel anywhere.

What's the use of wandering? There's plenty here to see.
The goin's on in this old town are swift enough for me.

From the Hickville Clarion.
It makes a fellow hot under the collar, after he has written a beautiful poem to his sweetheart, the village miller, describing her personal appearance and her having black locks, to find that since he saw her last she has changed from a brunette to a blonde. The water works was busted down five days last week and nobody knew it. Joe Mulhatten might have been somewhat of a liar in his day
but he never had anything on Hank Tamm who knows what the baseball score is don't know what his wife is going to eat for supper.

T. William Hanks is taking a much-needed rest from his duties at the Tibbitts store. He will make an extended trip through the west and will not be back until day after tomorrow. Abner Hicks was seen driving last Sunday evening and there was some millinery beside him.
Ah there, Ah. I know who is the best horseshoe pitcher in this town, but modesty forbids me naming to the name. Ye Editor has a new pair of pants and we didn't send to a Chicago mail order house for them either.

When the World Does End, Debs and Sha'n will still be in the race.

The papers will still contain pictures of a certain Colonel with a lot of teeth.
Gasoline will still be rising in price.
Some old gentleman will still be claiming that equal suffrage is wrong.
Gentlemen with celluloid collars and rubber heels will still be going round canvassing for books and crayon portraits.

A lot of special counts will still be looking for meat tickets in America.
Some mer will still be paying installments on encyclopedias they bought back during the Civil War.
Sir Thomas Lipton will still have designs on the American cup.

OSBURN IN PROTEST AT STATEMENT MADE

MANAGER OF SUGAR COMPANY
TAKES EXCEPTION TO UNI-VERSITY PROFESSOR'S CONTENTION.

PROOF OR RETRACTION

Of Story to the Effect That Beet
Sugar is Injurious to Bees is Requested in Letter Sent to President Van Hise.

Considerable discussion, especially among chemists and the manufacturers of beet sugar, over the statement of Prof. J. G. Sanders of the University of Wisconsin that beet sugar is injurious to bees, as published in the Gazette and other newspapers of the state, has finally resulted in a protest written by Mr. R. Osburn, general manager of the Rock County Sugar company, to President Van Hise and Dean H. R. Russell of the Agricultural college. Mr. Osburn also asks that Prof. Sanders prove his statement or retract the same.

Mr. Osburn states that the sugar companies have on their side such eminent authorities as Dr. Wiley and other experts who insist that there is no chemical difference between beet and cane sugar. Mr. Osburn's letter is duplicated below:

Janesville, Wis., Dec. 29th, 1912.

"Dear Sir: We were somewhat surprised to note an article in the newspapers purporting to be a statement of Prof. J. G. Sanders of the University of Wisconsin to the effect that beet sugar is poisonous to bees, and anticipating that it will be found poisonous to human beings. It would hardly seem possible that a professor of the University of Wisconsin would make a statement of this nature, but if he did make such a statement we desire to protest against a statement of this kind that is injurious to our business and request that he either prove or retract the statement.

"We understand that Germany, the largest sugar producer in the world, and also the largest honey producer, making about 20,000 long tons of honey from about 2,600,000 bee hives, has used sugar for feeding the bees, without the least injurious effect. These tests have been made by experienced beekeepers and professors extending over several years, which shows that sugar can be fed to bees to great advantage, but the question with them is to secure sugar at a reasonable cost, as the German has to pay for each one hundred pounds of sugar taken out of a sugar factory about $1.75, to the government, and this tax brings the price of sugar too high for feeding sugar to the bees. We are advised that the Society for the Increase of Sugar Consumption has been making experiments in charge of competent men to add certain substances to the sugar or in other words to denaturize it so as to make it unfit for other purposes than for bee feeding, and if they are successful they expect to petition the government to treat such treated sugar from taxes. We understand that they do not feed the refined sugar in Germany, but feed the raw beet sugar.

"We are also advised that Professor George Thomas Sayer, Ph. D., M. Sc., of Sheffield School of Yale university says in his book entitled 'The Story of Sugar,' that sugar from the sugar cane and the sugar beet are chemically identical; that the sugar from the beet is sucrose or cane sugar and that refined beet sugar differs neither physically or chemically from refined cane sugar.

"We understand that the Department of Agriculture has made extensive experiments during several years to determine definitely whether there be any essential difference between these two sugars. The decision of the experts is that there is no essential difference. We understand that in certain parts of the country they have made extensive experiments as to the efficiency of beet sugar in its preserving qualities when used in the manufacture of jellies, preserves and canned fruits, and that the tests of the government extended not only to these preparations, but to a wide variety of cooked foods, so that their experiments are sufficiently representative to be accepted as conclusive.

"In connection with bee feeding the story is interesting that in a German town lived a retired government officer who kept bees for a pastime. He noticed that he got more honey than anyone he knew of and an investigation he found that his bees would swarm to the refinery and get loaded up with sugar. The man evidently was a born money-maker and saw a good opportunity to make money and he rented space for bee hives in his garden. The bees were a source of trouble to the refinery, and the court was appealed to. The court granted no relief in the first instance and in order to be able to run, the windows and doors of the factory were screened, but in vain, as the men unloading the raw sugar were so troubled that the court reconsidered its decision and compelled the enterprising beekeeper to dissolve the bee colony.

Yours truly,
M. R. OSBURN."

Knew Value of Incentive.

Doubtless a form of incentive was burned in China and in what is now India many centuries before Christ, probably even before the time of Moses and Aaron. It may be that the wise men of those ancient days had learned through long years of experience that there was less illness when quantities of incentive was burned than when none was used. Whether they believed this was because of some divine token of approval, or really understood the disinfective qualities of the incentive is not known.

COMMERCIAL CLUB IS AN IMPORTANT ASSET

THIS ORGANIZATION OF GREAT VALUE TO JANESVILLE AS A WHOLE.

HELPS DEVELOP CITY

Aided in Reorganization of Harness Company—Purchased Auditorium and Held Many Exhibits
During Year.

In writing a review of the activity of the year in Janesville the work of the Commercial Club deserves particular notice. Through the club's secretary, Frank E. Kane, much has been accomplished for the betterment of the city in a commercial and financial way. Mr. Kane has been most earnest in his work and has received support of business men generally in putting the city on the map of Southern Wisconsin.

A brief resume of some of the most important work of this organization of business and professional men tell the story in concentrated form and show the value of the organization to the city at large.

JOHN C. NICHOLS HARNESS CO., ONE OF JANESVILLE'S LEADING INDUSTRIES.

The annual meeting of the Janesville Commercial Club fell on the night of February 22, 1912, the time of the disastrous Bassett & Echlin fire.

While this fire wiped out of existence one of Janesville's oldest concerns, it gave the club an opportunity to demonstrate its usefulness. When it became apparent that the Bassett & Echlin company would not be reorganized and that their employees and business were going to other cities, the club arranged and financed a $10,000 preferred stock issue for the John C. Nichols Harness Mfg. Co., which enabled that concern to move into larger quarters, equip a collar factory, take over a large part of the older concern's orders, and hold much of its business here in Janesville.

With its increased capacity made possible by this preferred stock, the Nichols company has been able to nearly double its volume of business and double its number of employees, and now bids fair to become one of the substantial manufacturers of Janesville.

The club has conducted two public celebrations during the year: The Mid-Winter Fair, held in March and the Manufacturers' Exhibit in November.

Both were unequalled successes from all standpoints of attendance, revenue and results. In connection with the Manufacturers' exhibit, the Merchants conducted a special bargain week which was extensively advertised throughout the surrounding county by circulars, auto trips with band, and new paper publicity.

Railroad fares were rebated by the stores to out-of-town shoppers and the volume of business done in the city that week was a record breaker.

Last spring negotiations were pending for the rental of the Rink building, for a hitch barn, for a long term of years. This would have deprived the city of any place suitable for holding the Mid-Winter fair and show.

Faithful show and Manufacturers' exhibit and the club decided an effort ought to be made to buy the building and preserve it for semi-public uses.

Accordingly, "The Janesville Auditorium Company" was organized and stock subscribed to the amount of $4,350. The property was purchased subject to a $5,000 mortgage, and since that time has been run by this company in the interests of the community.

The Auditorium Company has not only earned running expenses, but considerable improvement has been made in the property and a fund is being accumulated with which to liquidate the mortgage.

The work of the freight-traffic department of the club has expanded steadily during the year. The number of tariffs on file is constantly increasing, and with new tariff supplements and additions to keep the file indexed up to the minute. The club's office is equipped to give prompt and accurate freight information to all members, regarding routes rates, service, etc.

In order to facilitate all shipments by Janesville manufacturers, the club has arranged with both railroads for weekly and semi-weekly package cars to carry Janesville goods to distribution points, instead of shunting them into the general freight houses where they often lay undisturbed for weeks.

This package car system is proving a great boon to the L. C. L. shippers who, in many cases, are cutting their delivery times in two.

In order to follow up the manner in which the railroads handle this business the club distributes to such of its members as care to pay for them, postal card notices of shipments which sent out with the bill of lading, filed out by the consignee and returned to the club office there they are examined and filed for reference. These cards show the length of time the shipment was in transit, weight, freight charges and similar details; and thus enable the secretary to detect faulty

has met with the hearty approval of many of the Janesville manufacturers, as is evidenced by the fact that over four thousand of these cards have been used in the five months the plan has been in operation.

The matter of overcharges on incoming shipments also has the club's attention. The secretary audits the members' paid freight bills free of charge and has recovered several hundred dollars in overcharges during the year. In addition to that, by filing informal complaint with the Interstate Commerce Commission and by negotiation direct with the carriers themselves, the secretary has been able to get the rates into Janesville lowered on about fifteen different articles in common use, which will effect a large money saving to Janesville citizens for years to come.

The club has arranged for the State Industrial Commissioners Exhibit of Accident Prevention Appliances which was held in the city hall; has taken action on a number of subjects for suggested legislation that affected Janesville's welfare; is conducting a credit rating bureau covering the city and neighboring country; has circulated and pledged the local merchants to support an agreement not to patronize fake advertising; has investigated and entertained the propositions to locate some fifty different factories,

Men do in crowds what they would not think of doing as individuals.

We had numberless examples of it during the late presidential campaign.

The candidates for our highest office were almost mobbed by the crowds, were jammed and rushed, called by their first names or nicknames and generally treated in a way that showed public bad manners.

Yet most of the men making up these mobs probably pass as well bred. In their personal relations they are doubtless courteous and considerate of others.

Do we not need lessons in public manners?

The question goes deeper. Not only manners are involved, but morals. The lynching bee is an example. The mob may be composed of mild-mannered and exemplary men; but joined to others, they become savage brutes.

Do we not need education in public morals?

The problem goes still deeper. It is not the crowd that is at fault, but a failure to distinguish between public and private.

Some men are elected to office. As a private citizen he is reputed to be honest. After a few years in public place it is discovered that he is a grifter, a defaulter or a corruptionist.

He seems to think public money may be stolen with impunity because it belongs to nobody in particular.

He does not hesitate to enrich or advance himself at the expense of the entire community. He commits crimes that he would not think of committing in his private capacity.

Do we not need training in public conscience?

Theft of public property is even worse than theft of private property because it concerns more people. Violation of public standards is more demoralizing than violation of private standards for the reason that the example is seen by the multitude.

Democracy is comparatively new in the history of the world. It has made each of us a self governing unit, and we have not yet learned all of the royal lessons of kingship over self.

Still less have we learned our right relationship to the public.

Each person is a dual being, an individual and a part of society.

We need development on the public side, which means better public manners and more public honesty.

Origin of Famous Phrase.

"Write like an angel" is a corruption of Angelo. Among the Greeks who emigrated to Italy and afterwards into France in the reign of Francis I was one Angelo Verjeto, whose writing excited the admiration of the learned, so that his name became synonymous for the beautiful writing and gave birth to the phrase, to "write like an angel."

CHAPTER VIII.

A Way to the River.

She waited in agony as he sighted carefully, striving to gauge the distance. It seemed an interminable time before his finger pressed the trigger. Then came the report, a flash of flame, and the powder smoke blown back in her face. Half-blinded by the discharge, she yet saw that black smudge leap upright; again the Henry blazed, and the dim figure went down. There was a cry—a mad yell of rage—in which scattered voices joined; spits of fire cleaving the darkness, the barking of guns of different caliber. A bit of flying lead tore through the leather back of the coach with an odd rip; another struck the casing of the door, sending the wooden splinters flying like arrows. Hawk-eyed, Hamlin fired twice more, aiming at the sparks, grimly certain that a responding howl from the left evidenced a hit. Then, as quickly, all was still, intensely black once more. The Sergeant drew back from the window, leaning his gun against the casing.

"That will hold them for a while," he said cheerfully. "Two less out there, I reckon, and the others won't get careless again right away. Now is our time; are you ready?"

There was no response, the stillness so profound he could hear the faint ticking of the girl's watch. He reached out, almost alarmed, and touched her dress.

"What is the trouble?" he questioned anxiously. "Didn't you hear me speak?"

He waited breathless, but there was no movement, no sound, and his hand, trembling, in spite of his iron nerve, groped its way upward. She was lying back against the opposite window, her head bent sideways.

"My God," he thought, "did those devils get her?"

She lifted her slight figure up on one arm, all else blotted out, all other memory vanished through this in stant dread. His cheek stung where flying splinters had struck him, but that was nothing. She was warm, her flesh was warm; then his searching fingers felt the moist blood trickling down from the edge of her hair. He let out his breath slowly, the sudden relief almost choking him. It was but enough surely, but not what he had first feared, not death. She had been perhaps, on a spring splinter of wood, hair matted deflected bullet—her more than a child, yet it was no leaving her undisturbed, although it was but a child. If he hesitated it was but a child. The entire situation seemed to him in a flash; he must change his plans, but dare waste no time. They were to escape it must be accomplished now, shadowed by darkness, while savage watchers were safely beyond sound. His lean jaws set with fierce deter-

ment, and yet his eyes began to discern dimly the outlines—the head and shoulders of a man! The Sergeant crept forward—an inch, two inches, a foot. The figure did not stir. Now he was sure the fellow's head was lying flat on the turf, oddly distorted by a feathered war bonnet. The strange posture, the utter lack of movement, seemed proof that the fired warrior had fallen asleep on watch. Like a cat Hamlin crept up slowly toward him, poised for a spring.

Some sense of the wild must have stirred the savage into semi-consciousness. Suddenly he sat up, gripping the gun in his hands. Yet even as his opening eyes saw dimly the Sergeant's menacing shadow, before he could scream his alarm, or spring upright, the revolver butt struck with dull thud, and he went tumbling backward into the ditch, his cry of alarm ending in a hoarse croak. From somewhere, out of the dense darkness in front a voice called, sharp and guttural, as if its owner had been startled by the mysterious sound of the blow. It was the language of the Arapahoes, and out of his vague memory of the tongue, spurred to recollection by the swift emergency, Hamlin growled a hoarse answer, hanging breathlessly above the motionless body until the "ugh!" of the fellow's response proved him without suspicion. He waited, counting the seconds, every muscle strained with expectancy, listening. He had a feeling that some one was crawling over the short grass, wiggling along like a snake, but the faint sound, if sound it was, grew less distinct. Finally he lifted his head above the edge of the bank, but saw nothing, not even a dim shadow.

"They are closing in, I reckon," he thought soberly, "and it isn't likely there will be any more of these gentry as far back as this; looks as though this gully turned west just beyond. Anyhow I've got to risk it."

He returned more rapidly, knowing the passage, yet with no less caution, finding the unconscious girl lying exactly as he had left her. As he clasped her form in his arms, her lips uttered some incoherent words, but otherwise she gave no sign of life.

"Yes, yes," he whispered close to her ear, hoping thus to hold her silent. "It is all right now; only keep still."

He could feel her breathing, and realized the danger of her return to consciousness. If she should be frightened and cry out, their fate would be sealed. Yet he must accept the chance, now that he knew the way to be clear. He held her tightly in both arms, his revolver thrust back into its holster. Bending as low as he could with his burden, feeling carefully through the darkness before advancing a foot, he moved steadily forward. Where the gully deepened their heads were at the edge of the bank, but much of the way was exposed, except for the dark shadows of the slope. Fortunately there were clouds to the west, already obscuring that half of the sky, but to the east nothing was visible against the faint luminousness of the sky-line. Once, far over there to the left, a gun was fired, the flame splitting the night asunder, and against the distant reflection a black figure rose up between, only to be instantly snuffed out again. Hamlin put down his uplifted rifle, and waited, in tense, motionless silence, but nothing happened, except the echo of a far-away voice.

A dozen feet farther, some four-footed animal suddenly leaped to the edge of the bank, sniffed, and disappeared noiselessly. So true were his nerves strong that the Sergeant sank upon his knees, releasing one hand to grip his revolver, before he realized the cause of alarm—some prowling prairie wolf. Then, with teeth grimly locked, bending lower and lower, he crept across the rutted trail, and past the dead body of the Indian. Not until then did he dare to breathe naturally or to stand upright; but now, the gully, bending to the right, led away from danger, every step gained adding to their safety. He was confident now, full of his old audacity, yet awake to every trick of plaincraft. The girl's head rested against his shoulder, and he bent his cheek to hers, feeling its warmth. The touch of his unshaven beard pricked her in to semi-consciousness, and she spoke so loud that it gave him a thrill of apprehension. He dared not run in the darkness for fear of stumbling, yet moved with greater swiftness, until the depression ended at the river. Here, under the protection of the bank, Hamlin put down his burden and stood erect, stretching his strained muscles and staring back into the dark.

What now? Which way should they turn? He had accomplished all he had planned for himself back there in the coach, but now he became aware of other problems awaiting solution. In less than an hour it would be daylight; he almost imagined it was lighter already over yonder in the east. With the first dawn those watchful Indians, creeping cautiously closer, would discover the stage deserted, and would be on their trail. And they had left a trail easily followed. Perhaps the hard, dry ground might confuse those savage trackers, but they would scour the open country between bluff and river, and find the dead warrior in the gully. That would tell the story. To go west, along the edge of the river, wading in the water, would be useless precaution; such a trick would be suspected at once, and there was no possibility of rescue from that direction. They might as well walk open-eyed into a trap. There was but one hope, one opportunity—to cross the stream before dawn came and hide among those shifting sand-dunes of the opposite shore. Hamlin thoroughly understood the risk involved, the treacherous nature of the Arkansas, the possibility that both might be sucked down by engulfing quicksands, yet even such a lonely death was preferable to Indian torture.

The girl at his feet stirred and moaned. In another moment he had flung his hat with water from the river, and lifted her head upon one arm, and using the handkerchief from about his throat, was washing away the blood that matted her hair. Now that his fingers felt the wound, he realized the force of the blow stunning her, although its outward manifestation was slight. Her figure trembled in his arms and her eyes opened, gazing up wonderingly at the black outlines of his shadow. Then she made an effort as though to draw away.

"Lie still a while yet, Miss McDonald," he said soothingly, "until you regain your strength."

He heard the quick gasp of her breath, and felt the sudden relaxing of her muscles.

"You!" she exclaimed in undisguised relief at recognition of the voice; "is it really you? Where are we? What has happened?"

He told her rapidly, his face bent close, realizing that she was clinging to him again as she had once before back in the stage. As he ended, she lifted one hand to her wound.

"And I am not really hurt—not seriously?" her voice bewildered. "I never realized I had been struck. And—and you carried me all that way—? I—I can hardly comprehend—yet. Please explain again; they are back there watching for us still, believing we are in the coach; they will follow our trail as soon as it becomes daylight. Why—why, the sky is brighter over in the east already, isn't it? What was it you said we must do?"

"Get across the river; once hidden in those sand-dunes over there we'll be safe enough."

"Across the river," she repeated the words dully, sitting up to stare out toward the water. Then her head sank into her hands. "Can we—can we ever do that?"

Hamlin bent forward on his knees, striving with keen eyes, sharpened by his night's experience, to learn more of what lay before them. The movement, slight as it was, served to frighten her, and she grasped him by the sleeve.

"Do not leave me; do not go away," she implored swiftly. "Whatever you say is best, I will do."

THE DAILY NOVELETTE

THE TURNED BACKS

"Floribel loved Jackabel—
She loved her, she loved her—
Alas! They parted, broken hearted—
He blamed her, she blamed him—
They had quarreled before, but it was the first time they had turned their backs on each other. They had just returned from the Spin-doo's dance, so she had less on her back than he had on his and it may have been easier to turn.
"Come, make up, make up," said
the fair girl's mother, who was herself not at all made up, though well preserved. "I hate to see young people quarreling. Let dogs delight to bark and bite. He who laughs last laughs best, and also she. A mossy roll gathers no butter. What are you quarreling about, anyway?"

That was a poser, that was, for neither of them knew what they were quarreling about.
"Anyhow," cried the beautiful creature, "he began it!"
"Nothing of!" he retorted indignantly. "You started it—whatever it was."
"I did not. You did!"
"I did not. You did!"
And now, having really something to quarrel about, they again turned their backs upon each other. A cuckoo clock raised its voice plausively in the distance. L. A. P.

Crow "Helped" in Golf Game.

An unusual golf story comes from Scotland. Mrs. Barnett, an American lady living at North Berwick, while playing on the course recently, had her game considerably interfered with by a persistently inquisitive crow. She had just made a tee shot when the crow secured the ball, and, after flying with it for some distance, dropped it.
The lady made two other shots, and the crow, to her amazement, twice returned and lifted the ball after she had played it.
